Board Adopts Ordinance To Safeguard Milk Supply

ACTION TAKEN AT REQUEST OF DAIRY GROUP

WILL ROGERS says:
BEVERLY HILLS, Feb. 6. (To the Editor of The Register:) Well, all I know is what I see by the papers and I see where the manufacturers sales tax comes up in Congress this week. They been needing that for a long time, and I imagine it will pass, but it's not going to do what a lot of 'em want it to, replace the income tax. And there is no reason why it should; you are going to need sales taxes, both Federal and State, income tax and a lot of other kinds. It's a great country, but you can't live in it for nothing.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

VISITOR HERE RUNS AMOK IN RADIO STUDIO

when several police officers carried him to a patrol wagon. Hours later he quieted under restraints and blurted out an incoherent story.

From Montana

"I worked in wheat fields near Huntley, Montana," he said. "I have a brother there. Then I told the studio I'd show them how to put blue rings around the moon. For a long time they didn't answer. Then they announced on the radio I should come in to see them. I remember walking to a woman's desk and asking for a job but I don't remember stabbing anyone. They must have got in my way."

Wolverton was conscious only momentarily before he died.

"I never saw the man before," he told surgeons.

Studio officials said they knew nothing of Walters' "blue ring" letter.

Through identification cards in his pockets, police learned he had been visiting a brother, Frank Walters, at Santa Ana. The brother said he had been acting strangely since a recent illness.

Superior Judge Robert W. Kenny ordered Walters removed to the psychopathic ward where he was placed under close guard. Booked on murder charges, he will receive a sanity hearing tomorrow.

Democratic Club To Meet Tonight

ORANGE, Feb. 6.—The Roosevelt Democratic club of the fourth supervisorial district is to meet in the American Legion clubhouse tonight at 8 o'clock. It is announced by O. W. Sisson, secretary and treasurer of the organization. Russell Stratton will preside.

MUNICIPAL GAS PLANS FOR S. A. ARE BLOCKED

ject to prior sale at any time prior to the holding of the election and validating of the bonds." Under this clause, which was inserted in the letter over the protest of local officials, Field was entitled to sell to the gas company or any other agency at any time before April and thus block the city of Santa Ana.

It is understood that the gas company will put in nine units of machinery to take over the gas from the private producers. It is further rumored that the gas company previously had more gas supply than could be used and that the additional enormous field now in its possession cannot be used unless a new outlet or market is opened.

Gas company officials have indicated that they will attempt to develop an industrial increase in consumption by encouraging large plants to change from fuel oil power to gas machinery. Home consumption is already taken care of from the fields at Kettlemann Hills, Ventura and elsewhere, so that the Huntington Beach addition was unnecessary from that standpoint, it was stated by those connected with the proposal.

Field said that he would have liked very much to sell gas to Santa Ana and that the base price would have been the same, but that he was under contract to his operators to accept the first reasonable offer and dispose of the largest amount of gas possible. He declared that Santa Ana was not used as a threat to force the gas company to buy the field.

Good Example

Advocates of the municipal system pointed to Long Beach as a successful example of city ownership and cited the lowered rates and immense profits as reasons for instituting a similar plan here. It was believed that by purchasing gas from the field at 7 1/2 cents per thousand cubic feet and estimating 25 cents to pay off the bonds, provide maintenance and other expenses, that the total producing cost to the city would be from 35 to 40 cents, leaving a possible retail price to consumers of 50 cents. The home rate charged by the gas company is now $1 for the first thousand cubic feet, 80 cents for the next 4000 and 60 cents up to 20,000 cubic feet.

In a conference held here yesterday between city officials and gas company officials, great emphasis was placed on the fact that the city of Santa Ana will tap a new source of revenue in September from taxes on property owned by public utilities and which was formerly paid to the state. It was estimated that a revenue of $5.37 on each of the 10,000 meters in the city would be paid, totaling about $50,000 each year. The gas company also said that its payroll here was $178,000 annually for its 314 employees and that a municipal system should not be encouraged here.

Previous to the conference, it was estimated that it would cost $150 per consumer to install a new plant here, or a total cost of $1,500,000.

Mayor Paul Witmer stated today that he and his fellow officials were greatly disappointed that the source of supply had been purchased by the gas company and that he had been hopeful that a substantial saving could have been made to the taxpayers through reduced rates and decreased city taxes brought about by profits from the system. He said that every effort had been made to induce Field to give the city a contract.

MASS MEETING ON NEW STATE SINGLE TAX PLAN TO BE HELD IN S. A. TOMORROW NIGHT

Details of the synco-tax plan, which advocates hope to put on the ballot as an initiative measure in the general election in August, will be explained in a public meeting tomorrow night at the Willard Junior High school at 7:30, it was announced today by J. C. Metzgar, who is arranging the meeting.

W. M. Patch, president of the National Synco-Tax association, and Adj. Gen. A. H. Alderson, former secretary of state of Montana, will be the principal speakers at the gathering. C. E. Meigs, association secretary and Francis Marshall, tax expert, are also expected to attend.

A meeting was held in Santa Ana last Thursday to explain the general principles of the proposition to a large group of city and county civic leaders. It was unanimously decided that the group should endorse the meeting tomorrow so that citizens of the county could become acquainted with the proposed plan.

Synco-tax, as briefly explained by its sponsors is a term designating a proposed single tax on gross transactions and money turnover.

MAN WANTED HERE ARRESTED IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—(UP)—Allen B. Stocker, 34, also known under numerous aliases, was arrested here today for Santa Ana authorities who, Deputy Sheriff John Law said, want the man on suspicion of grand theft and forgery.

AIMEE LOSES SUIT; ORDERED PAY $5900

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—(UP)—A judgment of $5900 was returned against Aimee Semple McPherson today for her failure to proceed with production of a motion picture in which she was to be featured.

The suit, instituted by the Securities Research Association, Inc., brought sensational "scandal" charges against the famed evangelist.

The plaintiff, to whom the claim of the late J. Roy Stewart, director and producer, was assigned by his estate, claimed Mrs. McPherson withdrew from the picture because she was threatened with unfavorable publicity.

The publicity, it was said by Homer Johnstone, attorney, had to do with the time the evangelist allegedly spent in a bungalow with Cromwell Ormsby, formerly her counsel.

CONDITIONS IN EAST REPORTED TO BE BETTER

Business conditions in the East show definite signs of picking up, according to a statement made today by A. J. Cruickshank, president of the First National bank in Santa Ana, who just returned from a trip to Washington, D. C. Mr. Cruickshank made the trip to Washington via the United Air Lines in 24 hours, and enjoyed a most interesting trip to and from the capitol. The return journey was not made so quickly, however, as snow storms made it necessary to travel to Chicago by rail before leaving by airplane for California.

While in Washington Mr. Cruickshank took care of business matters and enjoyed seeing President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner while at dinner in a Washington hotel.

He had the pleasure of returning in the same airplane with Will Rogers and Leo Carillo, moving picture stars. Will Rogers made the return trip extremely interesting with his wit and jokes, Cruickshank said.

He recounted an amusing incident which occurred when a crowd of about 3000 greeted Rogers at Omaha, Nebraska, and had arranged for a broadcast of a talk by Rogers. The humorist had considerable fun at the expense of a newspaper reporter, Cruickshank related, by "kidding" him

GOLD RESOURCES OF NATION 7 BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(UP)—Total gold resources of the United States reached another high today at $7,023,569,235.70 based on the revalued price of the American dollar.

The gain over the previous day amounted to $2,655,114.07, indicating substantial purchases of gold at New York at the unlimited bid of $35 per ounce offered by the treasury in an effort to force the dollar to its new parity of 59.06 per cent of its former value.

Today's treasury statement gave no indication of further stabilization efforts. Officials read with interest a sharp setback in the London gold price, far under the $35 per ounce price offered by the government.

TWO PEOPLE LEAP INTO SEA
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—(UP)—Two men leaped into the Pacific ocean from the Kurama Maru, 1200 miles southeast of Los Angeles off the Mexican coast, according to general S.O.S. message from the vessel, R. C. A. headquarters here reported today.

The terse S.O.S. gave no names. It was said, merely asking all boats to be on the lookout and report to the master of the Kurama Maru.

The Kurama Maru is a Japanese freighter bound to Los Angeles from New York, according to the San Francisco Marine Chamber of Commerce. The chamber said it had received word of the fact that the men jumped overboard.

BARBARY COAST RESORTS AGAIN DISPENSE BEER

Collins expressed his "heartily sympathy" with efforts of citizens to prevent the return of the "barbary coast" as it was in the period between 1862 and 1914. Promoters of the repeal-revived coast resorts, however, insisted that they had no intention of restoring the section as the "wickedest place on earth."

Hearings Planned

The chairman reiterated the board's claim that it had the power to suspend any licenses issued under the state liquor act. The board will start hearings Wednesday in cases where it has ordered the licenses revoked for alleged violations.

Meanwhile Don Marshall, state enforcement agent in the San Francisco territory, said that he would make no new efforts to enforce the revocation decree. San Francisco police, who made the raids, maintained a similar attitude.

In San Francisco, the modernized "coast," after a night of darkness, was dispensing beer and wine and entertainment anew and was reorganizing the campaign to obtain police approval of dancing in the nine establishments now open in a single block on Pacific street.

Order Dogs Tied Up or Shot After Rabies Exposure

A strange collie which appeared in Westminster Sunday night and which is said to have attacked nearly every dog in the community, was found to have been suffering with rabies after an examination of its head by Orange county health authorities. The dog was shot by J. W. Montgomery of Westminster.

Dog owners of that vicinity have been ordered to tie up their dogs and dogs found running loose are to be shot. It has been announced. The mad dog confined his attacks to other canines and is not known to have attacked any person.

Alcohol, New Era Study Topics At First M. E. Church

Tomorrow night Mrs. Jennie Lasby Tessmann will deliver the second address in the series "Facing a New Era" which she is giving during the weekly Church nights at the First Methodist church. This week she will talk on "Economic Sanities." Mrs. Tessmann speaks during the assembly period starting at 6:45 p. m.

Classes, conducted as a part of the Church Nights will start at 7:55. Mrs. Mary Muffley Morehouse, chairman of the Temperance for the Pasadena Council of Religious Education will address her class on "Alcohol—A Poison, A Narcotic, A Habit Forming Drug, A Depressant, A Mocker, A Food?"

Four other classes are offered during the school period including a study of "How Can We Reach Our Ideals of Married Happiness and Parental Joy" under leadership of George Gleason of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A.; "Christ's Challenge to Youth," led by the Rev. Russell C. Stroup, pastor of the First Methodist church of Newport Beach; "Protestantism Up-to-Date," led by Dr. George Warner; and "Training in Worship and the Devotional Life," led by Mrs. Helen McArthur.

UPHOLDS STATE CONTENTION ON LEGAL POINT

Removal of the City of Huntington Beach from litigation that has arisen over alleged "whipstock" drilling was effected by the state yesterday in a decision handed down by Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine of San Diego who is presiding over the oil dispute here. Judge Turrentine granted a motion by Attorney General U. S. Webb to strike from the records the city's cross-complaint filed in the state's suit against the Willshire Oil company, alleging trespass. Attorneys L. W. Blodgett and George Bush appearing for the city of Huntington Beach gave oral notice of appeal from the decision.

After ordering the cross-complaint removed from the records Judge Turrentine upheld the city of Huntington Beach's general demurrer to the complaint. Commenting on the decision today Blodgett said that the two rulings placed the city in the position of having won their point after its removal from the case.

Blodgett said that the city of Huntington Beach is joined to the issue in the same paragraph that joins the Standard Oil company, Huntington Beach company, Pacific Electric Railway company and the Pacific Electric Land company. The allegations are identical, Blodgett said. "If the allegations are the same," Blodgett asked the court following the ruling, "what is the court's position on the right of the Standard Oil company and other defendants named in the paragraph to appear in the case if the city has no right to appear?"

The effect of the ruling yesterday was also to throw out the Huntington Beach amended cross-complaint filed last Saturday accusing Attorney General Webb, State Director of Finance Roland E. Vandegrift, the Standard Oil company and others of conspiring to force small oil operators to make compromises with the state. Judge Turrentine, however, in granting the motion of the state to dismiss the cross-complaint said that he will entertain a request by the city of Huntington Beach to file a complaint in intervention which, if granted, would bring the city back into the litigation.

The cross-complaint was dismissed following argument by Attorney General Webb in which he contended that the original cross-complaint had no standing in court because it was filed prior to the filing of the city's answer. This he held contrary to law. The state previously had attempted to have the city dismissed as defendants in the case but was unable to do so because of the cross-complaint on file.

Local Briefs

Arthur J. McFadden, prominent Santa Ana agriculturist and chairman of the state prorate commission, is confined to his home, 1108 North Main street, with illness. He is expected to be able to leave his home at the end of this week.

Eddie Martin of the Eddie Martin Airport was in Santa Ana yesterday and spent considerable time at the airport with his brother Floyd, who is manager of the field. Eddie has been with the American Airways for some time and at present is piloting one of the fast planes of the line. He makes the trip from Los Angeles to El Paso in four hours and four minutes.

Work of students in Pasadena junior college is being displayed this week in Santa Ana junior college library under the auspices of Alpha Rho Tau, art society on the local campus. Included in the exhibit are charcoal drawings, paintings and various modernistic designs.

A regular bi-monthly business meeting of the board of directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the chamber offices in the courthouse annex. It was announced today.

Orville Henderson, 1909 South Van Ness street, was given first aid treatment at the Orange County hospital yesterday for a severely lacerated hand. He caught his hand in the chain on a motorcycle, he told physicians.

Gwenivere E. McMillan, 18, of Santa Ana, and Tom J. Dickerson Jr., 21, of Garden Grove, have filed application for a marriage license in Riverside.

Members of the Orange County Bar association will hold their monthly meeting tonight at James cafe, starting at 6 o'clock.

FIVE SEALS UNSIGNED
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—(UP)—All but five players were signed for the 1934 season in the San Francisco Seals' lineup today. Those still holding their contracts are Larry Woodall, catcher; Win Ballou and Leroy Hoernemann, pitchers formerly with Los Angeles; Art Garibaldi and Jack Fenton, infielders.

BABY KILLED ON TRACKS BY SPEEDING TRAIN

Tragedy yesterday entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rawlinson who live near San Juan Capistrano when their 15-month-old baby daughter, Naomi, crawled 200 yards from her house to the tracks of the Santa Fe railroad where she apparently went to sleep and was crushed beneath the wheels of a speeding south-bound passenger train.

The baby girl was mistaken for a large doll on the tracks by the engineer, who did not attempt to stop his train. It was reported by Coroner Earl Abbey. When the train stopped at San Juan Capistrano four miles away, the engineer told the station master about the doll and then saw blood on the front of his engine.

Rushing back to the spot, they learned of the accident from Mrs. Irene Rawlinson, mother of the child, who had been looking for the girl and found her mangled body. The girl was taken to the Div. Funeral home in San Clemente, where funeral services were held this afternoon and an inquest will be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Two small children survive, besides the parents, who live on the Rosenbaum ranch.

Driver Booked For Drunkenness After Motor Car Crash

Earl P. Smith, 32, Cypress, charged with drunken driving, was booked at the county jail last evening by California Highway Patrolmen Vernon Barnhill and Joe Clever, following a wreck involving Smith and Delbert E. Helm, 37, Garden Grove, on Lincoln avenue in Cypress.

Both Smith and Helm were slightly injured in the crash, which was caused, officers said, when Smith veered over to the left side of the road while approaching the Helm machine. Both cars were badly damaged.

EXCITEMENT PREVAILS AS FOURTH STREET HUNT STAGED

"A-hunting we will go," shouted several merchants and clerks on Fourth street shortly after noon yesterday, as they pursued a large rat which scampered in and out of three stores before the "hunters," armed with brooms and stocks, managed to kill the rodent.

The lone rat, which almost escaped its pursuers, lost its tail before being laid low by the combined efforts of the "hunters." Running out of Rankin's Dry Good store, the rodent fled down the street to Ewert's Jewelry store, was chased out of there and ran into Newcomb's Shoe store before it was captured, it was reported.

Several women customers in the shoe store acted in the prescribed manner when rodents approach, it was reported, and came down off the counter after the kill.

Some sympathy was extended for the rat, which had managed to evade the systematic elimination campaign recently conducted by the health department.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS TO PLANT TREE AT CITY MUSEUM IN HONOR OF PIONEER MOTHERS

To the memory of pioneer mothers of California, a native sycamore tree will be planted in the southwest part of the grounds of the Charles W. Bowers Memorial Museum at Twentieth and Main streets, on Monday, February 12, at 4 p. m., it was announced today.

The dedication ceremonies will be in charge of Santa Ana Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Members of the parlor are looking forward to the official visit of Mrs. Irma W. Laird, of Alturas, president of the grand lodge, which will be made on the same day.

Mrs. Laird will be escorted by Mrs. Hazel B. Hansen, of Glendale, grand inside sentinel, to the Bowers Memorial where the dedication ceremonies will take place, and where she will assist Mrs. Mae West, president of the local parlor. The ceremonies are open to the public.

A banquet will follow the dedication at 8:30 p. m. at the Green Cat cafe, 415 North Main street, to be attended by the grand officers and members of several chapters in the Southland. Violet Henshaw, of Long Beach, grand deputy, will be present in her official capacity.

A regular business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening at the K. of C. hall, Fourth and French streets.

Reservations for the banquet should be made by Friday with Mrs. West, by telephoning 2278, or with Mrs. Matilda Lemon, secretary, by telephoning 1862.

Magnates Meet To Pass On Schedule

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(UP)—Club owners of the National League held their annual meeting today at the Waldorf-Astoria to ratify their 1934 baseball schedule.

CITRUS HOUSE SHOWS RETURNS OF $420,792

Gross packing house receipts of $420,792 were reported at the annual meeting of the Irvine Valencia growers at the Peacock Night club at Newport Heights last night. The Valencia association shipped 504 cars of Valencia during the past season.

C. W. Post, who was reappointed secretary-manager of the association, declared today that optimism is felt concerning the coming season. He predicted a tree crop of between 750 and 800 cars.

The following officers were named: A. J. McFadden, president; Robert Mitchell, vice president; W. B. Hellis, second vice president; Walter West and Robert Jeffrey, directors. Mitchell was named representative of the association to the board of the Orange county Fruit exchange.

Speakers at the dinner included Dalton Field, manager of the growers' service department of the California Fruit Growers' exchange, and J. O. Cook, secretary of the Exchange. Field spoke on the fruit auctions and Cook on the national pro-rate plan.

LABOR LEADER TO ADDRESS COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CLUB

Plans for a mass meeting featuring prominent labor, social and civic leaders in short educational talks were announced today by James L. Davis, chairman of the Orange County Democratic club. The club is sponsoring the meeting.

This meeting Davis said, is the first of a series that will be held Friday night in the lodge rooms of the Modern Woodmen of America, 202 1/2 East Fourth street.

The meeting will present as the featured speaker, A. W. Hoch, president of the California Federation of Labor, and a member of the Los Angeles board of public works, who is scheduled to talk on organized labor's relations to the National Industrial Recovery Act, and the NRA.

Hamilton H. Cotton, chairman of the state advisory board of public works, and a member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has indicated his intentions to attend.

A large delegation of labor and political leaders throughout the county is expected to be present, and everyone is invited to attend, Chairman Davis said.

Funeral services were held at the Trinity Episcopal church at Orange yesterday for H. L. Alcorn, California pioneer, who passed away at his home, 445 East La Veta avenue, Orange, late Saturday night at the age of 73 years. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. A. Shirley rector of the church and funeral arrangements were in charge of the C. W. Coffey Funeral chapel of Orange.

Pall bearers were Dr. Edwin C. Denning, Sidney Hammond, Douglas Cummings, Walter Eisenbraun, Irvin Eisenbraun and Alfred Eisenbraun. The choir of Trinity church sang several numbers and organ selections were played by Paul Hand, organist of the Monrovia Episcopal church. Surviving Mr. Alcorn are two sons, John, of San Francisco and Homer, of St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Alcorn has been a resident of California since 1871, coming to Napa county in 1871 and living in Orange for the past 10 years.

ENGINEER TO GIVE ADDRESS ON CHECK DAMS

"Check Dams" will be the title of an address tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Temple theater, Third and Bush streets, by Frank H. Olmsted, engineer of many important construction projects.

This lecture will be the weekly feature of the Dr. Frederick W. Roman forum and is expected to be of special interest and value to the people of Orange county, according to Dr. Roman who has heard this talk several times in connection with his other forums and has consulted with prominent people who have investigated Olmsted's work.

Olmsted's plan and system of flood control check dams was recently given a severe try-out in the Montrose-Glendale flood where thousands of dollars of property damage resulted and more than a 100 lives were lost. Dr. Roman reports. In two arroyos in this area Olmsted had constructed a series of check dams. These passed through the flood and were entirely successful in restraining the flood waters from inflicting damage and loss in their particular channels, according to those who have examined the area.

The plan is also announced as cheap and durable. With flood control and flood-water preservation an ever increasing necessity in Orange county the talk is timely and should prove of value to Orange county citizens, Dr. Roman said.

The lecture is free of charge and the public is invited.

FINAL RITES HELD FOR H. L. ALCORN

Funeral services were held at the Trinity Episcopal church at Orange yesterday for H. L. Alcorn, California pioneer, who passed away at his home, 445 East La Veta avenue, Orange, late Saturday night at the age of 73 years.

The services were conducted by the Rev. J. A. Shirley rector of the church and funeral arrangements were in charge of the C. W. Coffey Funeral chapel of Orange.

Pall bearers were Dr. Edwin C. Denning, Sidney Hammond, Douglas Cummings, Walter Eisenbraun, Irvin Eisenbraun and Alfred Eisenbraun. The choir of Trinity church sang several numbers and organ selections were played by Paul Hand, organist of the Monrovia Episcopal church. Surviving Mr. Alcorn are two sons, John, of San Francisco and Homer, of St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Alcorn has been a resident of California since 1871, coming to Napa county in 1871 and living in Orange for the past 10 years.

"WAS TAKING EVERY KIND OF DRUG FOR CONSTIPATION"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

Read this very enthusiastic letter:
"I am 34 years old and as far back in my life I have been constipated. I was so bad that I had one bowel movement every five or six days. I was taking every kind of drug known for constipation."

"Now for the last two months I have been eating a little ALL-BRAN night and morning and I have at least two to three bowel movements each day."—Mr. Frank Piratsky, 40-68 98th St., Corona, Long Island, New York.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also a fine source of iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream—sugar or honey or fresh fruits added. Or, to use in cooking.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

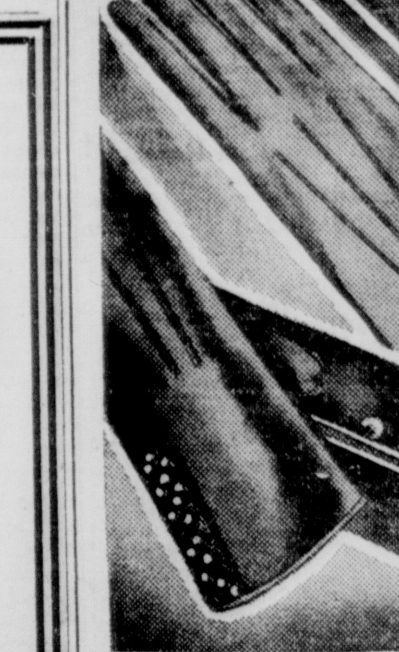

AIRWAYS INSPECTOR TO VISIT SANTA ANA

Word was received here today that Walter F. Parkin of Los Angeles, Southern California representative of the U. S. Department of Commerce Airways Division will be in Santa Ana tomorrow to inspect the site and plans for the proposed new county airport south of this city.

Application for development of the project as a special CWA project has been filed with the government. The original application was filed several weeks ago but last week local sponsors of the project learned that it would be necessary to file a new application using a different form. This new form is being prepared for forwarding.

DISCHARGED CWA WORKERS MAY APPEAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—A CWA worker fired from his job can now appeal his case for reconsideration.

California Administrative Edward Macaulay of the U. S. civil works administration made that clear today. Acting upon advice from Washington, D. C., he took initial steps to set up a system of appeal boards throughout the state to hear individual cases and act upon them.

Dismissal from CWA work for any reason at all will automatically give the worker the same right of appeal to higher authority that he now enjoys in the courts. Cases will be heard in the local communities where they occur.

Captain Macaulay declared this is one of the numerous steps now being taken to simplify and coordinate CWA affairs in California. Imprecisely in the early stages of organization, these factors to promote smoother functioning of the work are being taken up, he said.

The Public Forum

Communications under this heading must be signed by the name of the writer. These columns express the opinions of the writers of them. The opinions may or may not be the opinions of The Register.

Editor Register: Occasionally an incident arises to revive our faith in humanity. I have just seen one of the finest expressions of sentiment one can hope to find.

Recently a man died, leaving a wife and three minor children in destitute circumstances—purchased by a depression, brought about and nourished by human greed and selfishness.

This man had been a CWA worker up to the time of his illness. Whether it was through personal regard for him, or purely from a generous human spirit of self-sacrifice, I do not know, but am inclined to believe the latter, because he worked with them only a short time.

Whatever their motive, they made up a purse from their meager earnings large enough to defray two-thirds of the funeral expenses, and pledged themselves to give his family a specific income for several months to come.

The income will be small, of course, but enough to guarantee them something to eat at all times and a feeling of security while they are adjusting themselves to the new life.

These CWA workers cannot be praised too highly.

If that is representative of our citizenship, we need have no fear for our future.

When our so-called "big men," those who control the destinies of our country, both politically and financially, have developed the same spirit of these down-and-outers, we will have passed beyond the danger or possibility of another such depression.

AN OBSERVER.

Politically Speaking

BY GEORGE E. HELMER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 6.—

(UP)—With most of his appointments and other business cleared away, Gov. James Rolph starts his "non-political" tour of the state this week planning to visit every county seat and "give my fellow-Californians an account of myself."

"There will be no political speeches," he reiterated. "I merely will make the trip as governor in the same office."

Lila confesses to Gypsy that she intends to divorce Derek and marry Marka Broughton, richer and older.

Lila persuades Gypsy to call Marka and give him a message. Tom overhears and misunderstands. He and Gypsy quarrel but are reconciled.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Fat Men

Mr. W. R. Daniels of Richmond, Ill., N. Y. writes: "Have finished my second bottle of Kruschen Salts—Results—Removed 3 inches from waistline—am 25% more active—mind is clear—skin eruptions have disappeared—am 46 years old—feel 20 years younger."

To lose fat take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at McCoy Drug Co.—2 stores—or any drug store in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back—Adv.

accompanied by some department heads who will inform the people about accomplishments of the past year.

His insistence that the trip has no bearing on his possible announcement of candidacy for reelection brought smiles from political observers. "Sunny Jim" has a disposition famous for its ability to win friends, and an extensive tour will serve as an excellent start to a probable campaign. It will give Rolph an opportunity to feel the pulse of the state in certain sections.

Lieut. Gov. Frank Merriam, State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson and other candidates who have done little else the past few months but tour the state.

Fifty-three counties are on the original itinerary, with the first stop scheduled for Fresno February 5, and a big celebration in Los Angeles February 13-14. The remaining five county seats—Yreka, Auburn, Susanville, Downville and Quincy—will be visited later, when weather and road conditions improve.

Republican leaders are a bit perturbed over Democratic developments centering on President Roosevelt and Senator Hiram Johnson. The Democrats in California can wave the flag of activity, with the slogan, "Follow Roosevelt and let's go some place."

They have a powerful issue in national developments, and will take full advantage of it, especially if they can decide upon a strong candidate and throw their forces behind him for election to the governor's job.

Senator Johnson, according to reports, has balked at a plan to support a Democratic gubernatorial candidate in return for Democratic support of his own candidacy for reelection. Even so, there was a strong chance that liberal Republicans would upset tradition and lend support to a Democrat.

If the party in California presents possibilities of a stronger program than the stand-pat Republicans can offer.

Party lines were bent a year ago, and liberals are liable to vote for a liberal, regardless of his party affiliations.

Rolph, Johnson and Merriam, the three outstanding possibilities in the Republican race at present, are members of the old guard. So are former Governor C. C. Young and Friend W. Richardson, either or both of whom may enter the race. If any Republican candidate criticizes expenditures of the Rolph administration, his words may reflect against the party as a whole—and there have been numerous bricks hurled, particularly by Johnson.

One state official who knows his politics sees a possible solution of the Republican problem—the calling of all county central committees and state central committee into convention to choose an official candidate. This, coupled with a strong issue, would strengthen the Republican cause immeasurably. However, all the candidates probably would oppose such a plan, as each feels he might win the nomination in a free-for-all fight at the polls.

Official announcement by Fred E. Steward that he will be a candidate for reelection to the board of equalization, expected almost any time now, ends all argument over the possibility of his entering the gubernatorial handicap.

He has a Democratic opponent in James M. Murphy, Sacramento. State Senator J. W. McKinley, Los Angeles, will make no attempt to succeed himself at the next election. . . . Eldore Dockweiler has joined the ranks of Democrats supporting Senator Hiram Johnson for reelection. . . . Rolph remains undecided as to whether he will visit the nudist colonies.

DIRECTOR DENIES WILL MARRY GRETA

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(UP)—

Rouben Mamoulian, noted film director, slipped into New York on the 30th Century Limited today, considerably irritated by persistent reports he would marry his star, Greta Garbo.

"Can I help those stories?" he snapped at reporters who interrupted his dash across Grand Central terminal. "I'm not married and I have no plans whatsoever."

Reports from Hollywood had indicated Mamoulian and Miss Garbo were together on the Manhattan Limited of the Pennsylvania but a search of that train failed to disclose the actress.

He went up in the bronze elevator, smiling secretly at his own daring. The girl at the information desk was new and did not recognize her. She didn't give her name. Was Mr. . . . or in? The girl, who had the head and shoulders of a wax mannequin, spoke softly into a telephone and informed her that Mr. Weaver was just on his way out to lunch. What name?

"I'll wait here," Gypsy said in the deep dwait which swallowed up her smallness. In the dim light her gray costume was scarcely noticeable against the taupe background. Presently he heard Tom's step and almost started to her feet. But as he emerged from the corridor she saw he was not alone. A tall, gilt-haired girl with him. He had her arm and was speaking to her earnestly. They seemed utterly absorbed. They did not see her as she stood waiting for the down elevator.

Gypsy's heart felt as though an icy hand were squeezing it. She sat perfectly still as the elevator door clanged open and a shut and Tom's laugh rang out as the car shot downward. The information clerk glanced up curiously as she rose to go. "Why, Mr. Weaver left just now. Didn't you see him?"

"No—I—I," she floundered. "I'll be back later."

"Anything I can do?" The wax mannequin was helpful.

Gypsy's eyes wandered past her. Anything she could do? No, there was nothing anyone could do for her today. She had trusted him so completely, so utterly; and yet she must believe the evidence of her eyes. How absorbed he had been! She had been right—she had been right all the time.

She walked aimlessly down Broadway, past Trinity churchyard with doves wheeling in the sunshine, past block after block of stone facades and plate glass and table d'hôte restaurants and haberdashers.

A hooded subway entrance at Park Place reminded her that she must be home before it was time for Elsa to leave. She ran down the stairs and clicked past the turnstile, paying her fare. There was the baby to be thought of. If all else failed, if her world crumbled to dust around her, she was always David's small and pink and trusting and fond.

She never knew, later, how she got through the dreadful day. Her throat would be dry, her heart would beat thickly and painfully when she thought of her husband's homecoming. What would she say to him? How begin?

Elsa put on her gray coat and bag, soft, shapeless hat and went away. Gypsy bundled the baby up and carried him down to the perambulator garage in the basement

SECOND ARREST IN CAFE BRAWL MADE

Chris Gillardo, 23, 1644 Lincoln street, was booked at the jail early today after police arrested him for disarming the peace on a warrant secured by J. Costello, proprietor of Curley's cafe, 2626 West Fifth street.

Costello called officers early Sunday morning after he had ordered a gang of drunken Mexicans to leave his cafe and they had retaliated by storming the door. He told police he had fought the men with a club and placed Angel Cavillo, 21, 902 Logan street, under arrest.

Cavillo was taken to the jail, arraigned yesterday before Judge J. G. Mitchell and committed to the jail for 12-12 days. Costello told police that he had tried to keep the intoxicated men out of his cafe and that they had broken the glass in the door trying to get back in. Gillardo was cited by Costello as one of the leaders of the trouble and was arrested by Officers A. L. Steward and Joe Murillo at his home.

ROB PURSE OF AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIM

Another version of the "meanest man" story was brought to light yesterday when Lieut. W. E. Ferguson, U. S. S. Pennsylvania, involved in an auto accident Sunday night south of Irvine, told deputy sheriffs that $60 had been stolen from the purse of his lady companion when two youths rushed her to a doctor's office for medical aid.

Ferguson and Mrs. M. H. Richardson were cut and bruised from the crash and were taken to Doehny Park by the two youths. While one of them carried the woman into the office, the other looted her purse and then disappeared with his companion, Ferguson said.

Curt Henderson, 6, 1006 South Flower street, held after the crash on investigation of drunken driving, had charges dropped to drunkenness in the Tustin justice court yesterday and was fined $10. It was brought out by officers that both Henderson and Ferguson had been drinking and no one had actually seen Henderson operating his car.

SEVEN FACE COURT ON LIQUOR COUNTS

Seven men were brought into police court yesterday on liquor violations with two being committed to the county jail.

Frank Olivas, charged with driving drunk, paid $50 of a $150 fine. John T. Earl, charged with the same offense on January 20, also paid $50 of a $150 fine and both agreed to pay the remainder on installments.

Five men were sentenced on drunkenness charges. Anastacio Garcia was committed for 12½ days; Angel Cavillo was committed for 12½ days; George Cordova paid $5 of a $10 fine; J. L. Morgan promised to pay a $15 fine and Red Ramsdell was committed for 10 days.

Arthur Olsen, charged with breaking glass on the street, paid $5 of a $10 fine. He allegedly broke a liquor bottle while being searched by police.

Accepted his dash across Grand Central terminal. "I'm not married and I have no plans whatsoever."

Reports from Hollywood had indicated Mamoulian and Miss Garbo were together on the Manhattan Limited of the Pennsylvania but a search of that train failed to disclose the actress.

Jailed Four Times Since Saturday On Liquor Charges

There is more than one way of spending money so John Lauder, 64, 927 East Pine street, chose to post bail each time he got rearrested for drunkenness over the weekend.

Lauder started his jail activities Saturday at 11-15 p. m. when he was arrested for drunkenness at Fourth and Mortimer streets. He was jailed out at 5 a. m. Sunday with a $50 bond but was rearrested at 7:30 a. m. at Fourth and French streets. In the meantime, Judge J. G. Mitchell learned that Lauder had failed to pay a $15 fine for intoxication about a year ago so sent up a bench warrant to hold him.

Lauder, still free with his cash, put up bail to cover the bench warrant and his release at 5 p. m. He was punctual in arriving at police court yesterday afternoon but had neglected to stay sober so Judge Mitchell sent him back to jail with bail fixed at $100. Jailers guaranteed he would be sober the next time he was taken to court.

MAN INJURED IN FIGHT AT CAFE

Details of a fight at The Barn, 2600 South Main street, early Sunday morning, in which William Lipscombe of Santa Ana was seriously injured, were revealed to police yesterday, according to reports.

The parents of Lipscombe came to police yesterday to learn of injuries to their son, who was supposed to be at the house of his former wife at 510 East Second street. The son refused to tell the name of his assailant but Special Officer Tom Finney at the Barn told officers that J. L. Morgan, 21, 2649 Hickory street, who was arrested for drunkenness and battery after a fight, was believed to be the other man involved. Lipscombe was taken home by his wife.

Morgan was fined $15 for drunkenness in police court yesterday.

Intruder Rushes From House As Owner Returns

Believed by police to be the same magazine boy who entered several Santa Ana homes recently, a 12 or 13-year-old youth was being sought today, following a report from T. R. Griffith, 1427 South Ross street, that his home had been entered by the youth.

When Mrs. Griffith returned to her home about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, she was surprised to find the back door unlocked. Going to the front door, she found the key pushed through on the floor but the door still locked. As she walked back to the rear of her home, a boy dashed from a rear bedroom out the door, jumped on a blue bicycle and rushed away, she told officers.

Mrs. Griffith said the lad was wearing brown corduroy trousers and a blue sweater. Nothing was reported missing from the house.

Activities of J. C. W. A. A. Are Stated

Swimming, tennis and hockey seasons opened today for the Santa Ana Junior College Woman's Athletic association, announced Miss Doris Rockwell, newly elected president of the group.

Other officers elected were Miss Aline Buck, vice president; Miss Suzanne Clark, secretary, and Miss Yvonne Baker, treasurer.

"Women wishing to join the association may do so by going out for one sport, and may make a cover letter by participating in three," revealed Miss Rockwell.

Accepted his dash across Grand Central terminal. "I'm not married and I have no plans whatsoever."

EXPECT SCHOOL REPAIR COSTS TO BE REDUCED

Pending their official appointment, architects for the rehabilitation of the Santa Ana high school buildings are preparing sketches and estimates for the job which, according to their figures, will cost the Santa Ana high school district less than $400,000, or near the figure estimated by a local contractors' committee, instead of $610,000 as originally estimated by architects.

Information concerning the plans prepared by Allison and Allison was given members of the "Fathers' Council of the City Schools" last night by Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson, Henderson was in Los Angeles yesterday and saw the preliminary sketches. He said that the plan being worked out by the architects, provided for remodeling the two front buildings of the high school group, junior college and science buildings, as one-story structures, and rebuild completely the auditorium and administration buildings into one structure with additional footage included to provide space to replace the top floors of the college and science buildings. The auditorium will be of reinforced concrete and the other buildings will probably be of frame-stucco construction.

Henderson also informed members of the council that Dr.

Burch, head of the Green Bill committee will be in Los Angeles tomorrow to give contracts to architects who have been nominated. Henderson said that this indicated that the $615,000 appropriation to Santa Ana for its rehabilitation program would be available within a short time.

Markel, one of the committee of local contractors who inspected the buildings after the state inspector had completed the job and prepared additional estimates on the cost of rehabilitation, spoke.

Markel compared the estimates for rehabilitating the high school group of buildings with the estimates prepared by Allison and Allison at the time Santa Ana applied for funds under the Green Bill was made, the Los Angeles architects prepared two estimates which Markel quoted. One provided for construction of all new buildings at an estimated cost of $610,000. The second estimate provided for building a new auditorium and repairing the present administration building, junior college, science, gymnasium and manual arts buildings at an estimated cost of $501,872.

Henderson called attention to the fact that at the time the estimates were presented Allison and Allison informed the school board that the figures were not accurate and were considerably higher than the actual rehabilitation would cost. They were prepared in three days and solely for the purpose of applying for funds, he said.

Markel said last night that he and his committee submitted two plans for rehabilitating the high school group. Both plans, he said, provided for a new auditorium, cost $49,860. In the first plan the total cost was estimated at $20,188 and in addition to building a new auditorium provided for repairing the junior college, science, gymnasium and manual arts buildings. The second plan, in addition to a new auditorium building, new manual arts building and repairing the junior college, science and gymnasium buildings, at a total estimated cost of $338,574.

In a brief discussion the matter of moving the junior college from the high school plant was discussed, with Henderson saying that it would be necessary to move the college during rehabilitation and that would give the board of education an opportunity to study the problem of having the college separate from the high school as a permanent plan.

Large Crowd At Entertainment Of S. A. Strong Man

Stephan Clark, Santa Ana's 73-year-old strong man, entertained a group of about 500 persons at his blacksmith shop and home at 519 North Artesia street last night, celebrating the appearance of a feature article in the March number of Physical Culture magazine.

The Rev. C. D. Hicks, pastor of the Christian M. L. church, gave a brief talk, in which he pointed out that Clark had demonstrated that abstinence from the use of alcohol, tobacco and living the right way earns its own reward in strength and good health.

Clark did a number of difficult stunts for the entertainment of his guests who gathered at his home.

CRAFT TALKS TO BE MADE AT CLUB MEETING

Clyde Rowland, chairman of the Kiwanis club program committee, has arranged for three members of the club to give craft talks as a feature of the regular weekly meeting tomorrow noon in James' cafe. It was announced today by Fred Crowell, secretary.

Don Rice, of the Standard Oil company, O. N. Chapin, manager of a large laundry and cleaning establishment, and Maurice Enderle, chief deputy assessor for Orange county, are the three members scheduled to talk. They will be introduced by Dr. H. MacVicker Smith, program chairman of the day.

Kiwanis Boy Scout week will be observed February 8 to 14. Dr. G. Emmett Ralitt, and his Boy Scout committee, plan to give an observance program at the meeting.

Pictures of a small girl who had a hair-rip before and after the Kiwanis club sent her to a hospital for a corrective operation will be passed among members of the club.

The Underprivileged Child committee now is helping another worthy but unfortunate youngster, 12 years of age, whose bones and teeth are wasting away because of mal-nut

STATE LEAGUE OFFICIALS AT COUNCIL MEET

Cooperation among cities of the state regarding the California League of Municipalities and an invitation to the city to avail itself of the facilities of the state league was stressed by Mayor Harold Pomeroy of Southgate, field representative of the state group, at the city council meeting last night.

Pomeroy cited actions of a former official of the Los Angeles county league in attempting to form a Southern California league and thanked the local trustees for ignoring the new organization. He pointed out that the new setup in the state group, giving each county league in the state a representative on the board of directors, would help in unifying the state.

Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger, who is also president of the Orange County League of Municipalities, advised Pomeroy that Santa Ana was heartily in favor of the present arrangement and was not supporting any idea of Fred Baughman, the organizer of the new league.

Winston Uptograft, editor of Western Cities, monthly publication of the state league, accompanied Pomeroy and spoke briefly.

Youth Held For Trial On Drunk Driving Charge

Joe Tornavacca, Garden Grove youth charged with drunken driving following a wreck on January 3, was bound over to the superior court in justice court today by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

Cars driven by Tornavacca and C. M. Coelho, Talbert rancher, collided at First and Verano roads with Tornavacca receiving severe injuries. He was arrested on the drunken driving charge while Coelho was arrested the next day for failure to stop and render aid. The rancher was bound over to the superior court, pleaded guilty and had his hearing set for probation.

The information will be filed against Tornavacca in superior court Friday.

ELECT OFFICERS OF IRRIGATION FIRM

Officers for the S. A. V. I. were elected this morning at an annual meeting held at the company offices on North Glassell street, Orange. Former officers of the company held over as a quorum of stockholders was not present. Officers are president, A. N. Saxton; board of directors other than Saxton, W. A. Greenleaf, I. L. Morchag, C. A. Palmer and A. M. Robinson; secretary, O. E. Mansur.

W. A. Ralph is superintendent, the First National bank of Orange, treasurer; W. W. Hoy, engineer and Refan and Mize of Santa Ana, attorneys for the company. The S. A. V. I. company was organized as such in 1877, having superseded the Semi-Tropic water company. The last quorum at an annual meeting was in 1927.

STORAGE LOT COUNCIL HEARS PROTEST PROPOSAL FOR PARK CHANGE

Citizens living near Virginia and Valencia streets presented a signed petition of protest to the city council last night concerning the storage of junk, boxes, heavy implements, and other articles on property at that intersection owned by Willard Lake, 519 South Birch street.

The petition declared that the unsightliness of the lot depreciated property values and was a nuisance. The council was asked to take action in removing the condition.

City Engineer J. L. McBride pointed out that horses were often kept on the lot but that since there was no health or fire hazard involved, the only grounds which the city could act upon would be the nuisance objection. The matter was finally referred to the planning commission for a recommendation, which will be made at the next meeting.

Nineteen property owners signed the petition.

Projected improvements in Birch Park, including the removal of the present rest rooms and bandstand, and the construction of a modern new structure on the west end of the park were outlined to the city council yesterday by City Engineer J. L. McBride and Architect H. C. Wildman.

The project, to be resubmitted to CWA authorities, was taken under advisement by the council. According to figures offered by Wildman, the cost of the combination band stand and restrooms would be $7500, of which the city would have to spend $2600 for materials, provided the CWA continues the present ratio of appropriations on labor and material.

The architects' drawing showed the building on the west of the park with a large stage facing east. Vine-covered pergolas extended on each side to shelter the rest rooms which were entered from the rear. A large room directly behind the stage could be used for speakers and equipment while another room was provided in an excavation below the stage to store equipment and tools used in the park.

The present band stand and rest rooms are very old and considered inadequate. The new structure would be of Spanish architecture and would make possible a better seating arrangement for band concerts. It is claimed.

CITIES TO GET LITTLE FROM LIQUOR FUNDS

Mayor Clyde Watson of Orange, who represented Santa Ana and Orange at the recent meeting in San Francisco regarding legislation and conditions of liquor control, made a brief report to the city council yesterday.

Watson pointed out that under the present system, cities would receive little or nothing from their promised share of 40 per cent of the net receipts from licenses after the cost of policing was expended. He said that there are now about 800 men in the enforcement division of the state board of equalization and more probably would be hired.

He said that the large liquor interests, including the larger hotels and cafes, were attempting to also the license prices so as to squeeze out the smaller merchants and vendors. He said that an initiative measure probably would be on the next ballot, as soon as an agreeable amendment to the present laws could be framed.

PLAN CULVERT
City Engineer J. L. McBride advised the council that the Pacific Electric railroad had agreed to pay for its share of a culvert under the tracks on Maple street crossing McFadden street, and the work would start soon, with the city matching the appropriation from the railroad.

PAIR ARRESTED FOR THEFT OF $100 DOGS

I. J. Malton and Robert Malton of Pomona were charged by Virginia L. Cookson of Silverado canyon with the theft of two female Scotch terriers valued by the owner at $100 each in the court of Judge A. W. Swayze at Orange yesterday afternoon. The two men who are said to have been living on property owned by Mrs. Cookson and who have been in her employ, were brought to Orange yesterday afternoon by Constables George Bartley of Orange and Jess Elliott of Santa Ana.

Trial date was set for February 15, the defendants asking for a jury trial. A young boy involved in the affair, also a resident of the Malton home on the Cookson property was eliminated from the matter by action of Judge Swayze and charges against him were dismissed.

Mrs. Cookson came into prominence here several years ago when she was the principal in a kidnapping in which she claimed she was taken to Mexico by men of a dope ring and later was released by a young Chinese servant of the gang, making her escape in a basket of laundry.

COUNCIL ASKED TO ADOPT ORDINANCE BY FARM BUREAU

Asking the cooperation of Santa Ana in making the anti-littering ordinance uniform throughout the county, the Orange County Farm Bureau, through Holmes Bishop, executive secretary, communicated with the city council last night.

In his letter to the board, Bishop pointed out that the county already had the anti-picketing ordinance, Orange had passed it and other cities were considering the measure as a means of protection to the agricultural interests of the county. He said that the many packing houses and merchandising organizations in the county needed protection and that the proposed ordinance was a forward step.

A copy of the county ordinance was enclosed in the letter, both of which were referred to City Attorney Clyde Downing for recommendation.

The measure adopted by the county was directed against picketing during labor troubles.

NEW OFFICERS IN CHARGE OF POST AFFAIRS

New officers of the Orange County post No. 42 of the Canadian Legion were in charge of the organization today, following official installation by a delegation from the Hollywood post No. 28 at the Orange American Legion hall Friday evening. The next meeting will also be held at the Orange Legion hall, on February 14 at 8 p. m., when the women's auxiliary, now being formed, will also take part and a card party will be a feature.

Russell Munro is the new post commander, T. W. Halliwell first vice commander, Dr. J. S. Helms second vice commander, A. E. Ray adjutant and finance officer, Donald Betts chaplain, G. C. Macleod historian and J. F. Watkins sergeant-at-arms.

The post members at the installation meeting decided to accept an invitation issued by the Jack Fisher chapter of the Disabled American War Veterans to cooperate with other veterans' organizations in a military ball to be given at the Valencia ballroom on Washington's birthday, Alex F. Walker and Matthew Cliff were named as a committee to present the Canadian Legion's colors at the affair.

Commander Sid Hill of the Hollywood Canadian Legion post and his aides installed the new officers of the local post. On the platform with him were Commander Beckford of the Orange post of the American Legion and Commander Murray of the Whittier Canadian Legion post. Color bearers of the Hollywood post carried the American and Canadian flags.

Orange County Fruit Exchange Officers Named

Expressing confidence in their regime, officers and directors of the Orange County Fruit exchange were reelected at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon in Orange.

Willard Smith was reelected president of the exchange; W. H. Filppen, first vice president; L. W. Evans, second vice president; C. E. Skiles, secretary-manager; W. R. Walker, assistant secretary-manager; N. T. Edwards and W. B. Williams, treasurers; LeRoy Lyon, representative to the board of directors of the California Fruit Growers exchange and the Fruit Growers Supply company, with C. B. Utt named as alternate to the directorates.

During the annual session Manager Skiles made his annual report, which showed a return of $5,003,661.81 to affiliated association during the fiscal year which ended October 31, 1933.

Shipments through the Orange County Fruit exchange for the period amounted to 2,535,154 boxes of all varieties of citrus fruit.

CUT THIS OUT

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES
If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrh of the Ear, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used actively is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.

Secure from Walgreen's, McCoy Drug, or your druggist 1 ounce of Eucalypti (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Painful swelling in the way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh of the ear or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

REPORTS SHOW INCREASES IN FEES AND FINES

Substantial increases in building permits and fees, plumbing permit fees and fines paid in the city police court marked the monthly reports made to the city council last night.

Building Inspector Sam Preble announced that he had issued 40 permits with fees totalling $112.25, as compared to 54 permits and fees of $91.65 for the month of December. There were seven plaster permits last month with fees of $38.50, making a total of $140.75 for his department.

City Recorder J. G. Mitchell had receipts for the street improvement fund of $502 and $316.50 for the general fund, making a total of $818.50 in fines, as compared to $695.50 for the month of December.

There were 38 plumbing permits, with a total valuation of $4981 and fees of $132.50 for January, as compared to 61 permits with a valuation of $4364 and fees of $102 for December. There were three sewer permits last month, making a total collection of fees by Inspector H. O. Crowe of $135.50.

The electrical fees showed a decrease, falling from 51 permits and $110.35 in fees in December to 38 permits and $57.60 in fees for January.

EQUIPMENT SHED REQUEST DELAYED

Decision as to whether to build a new shed on city property on Walnut street near Flower, to house equipment of the ornamental street lighting system and fire alarm materials, was delayed by the city council last night after presentation by City Engineer J. L. McBride.

McBride said that two small sheds now on the property had been broken into several times by neighborhood children and were not adequate for their usage. He said the labor for the shed could be secured from the CWA if the city was willing to pay $160 for materials. Since it may be possible to submit a new project in the near future and secure part of the materials as well as the labor from the CWA, no action was taken.

PLAYS DISCUSSED
FULLERTON, Feb. 6.—After discussing modern plays, Miss Griggs of Mills College led the members of the Junior forum in a round table talk Monday night. The talk followed a pot luck dinner in the

Beach Council Orders Gas Rate Investigation

CIVIC GROUPS TO HOLD JOINT MEETING SOON

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 6.—Investigation of gas rates in Huntington Beach was authorized by the city council following adoption of a resolution introduced by Councilman Chris H. King at last night's meeting. His plan provides that the chamber of commerce, Business Men's association and other civic organizations arrange for a joint meeting with the city council for a discussion of the gas rates.

Following this conference a general meeting will be called, probably in Memorial Hall, at which a representative of the Southern Counties Gas company, which supplies this city, will be asked to give the company's justification for present rates.

Councilman King offered in support of his movement the statement that the gas company buys its gas in the field at six to 10 cents a thousand cubic feet, transports it a few hundred feet from where it is produced and charges householders for domestic consumption from 75 cents to $1 a thousand cubic feet. He was warmly supported by Councilman Tom R. Talbert and Mayor Elson G. Conrad, who also made short talks and the resolution for an investigation went over unanimously.

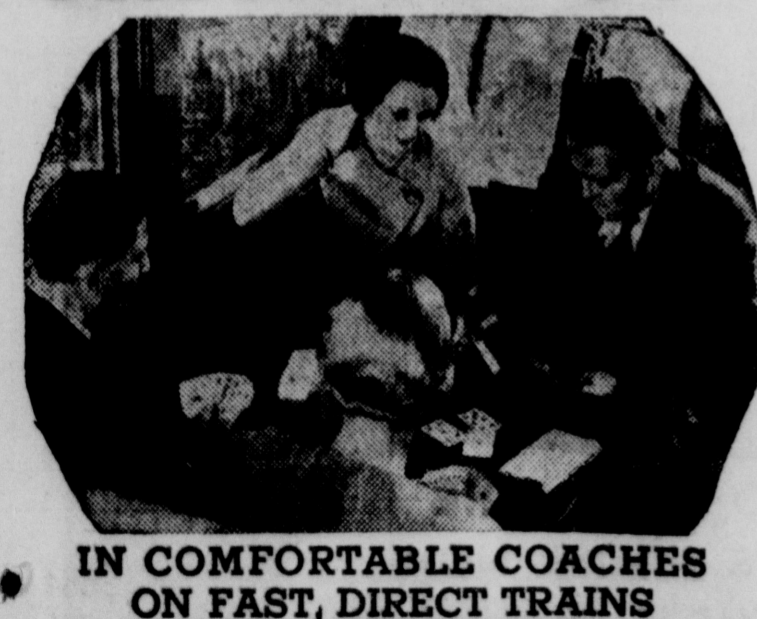

It was decided that the meetings preliminary to the investigation of gas rates should all be held prior to the regular meeting of the council the first Monday in March by which time the councilmen expressed the hope that they would be able to ascertain the consensus of public opinion and public support of a movement for lower gas rates.

Earlier during the council meeting City Clerk C. R. Furr read a refusal of the Southern Counties Gas company to continue payment to the city of a charge of one and one-fourth cents a thousand to be paid the city for the permit to sell gas in the field. Furr said all gas producers and sellers in the field paid this charge and the Southern Counties Gas company had paid it since December, 1928. He said the ordinance creating the charge was adopted mainly on recommendation of the Southern Counties, which at that time built a gas line into the oil field to supply gas to oil wells for fuel.

Furr read a letter from the gas company stating that they refused to pay this charge for the past year because their auditors had investigated and found it was not legal. The letter said that the statute of limitations prevented the gas company from recovering the money paid the city over the many past years, but asked that the city pay back the charge for 1931 amounting to $1780.17 and for 1932 amounting to $799.97. Furr claimed the gas company owed the city between $15,000 and $20,000 for the past year. The council referred the matter to City Attorney Ray Overacker for recommendation as to the proper procedure for collecting the money from the gas company.

PLACENTIA TO VOTE SECOND TIME ON CITY HALL PROJECT

PLACENTIA, Feb. 6.—City councilmen of Placentia last night voted to hold another election on building a city hall and will circulate petitions immediately calling the election for April 9, when three city councilmen will be elected.

The issue lost at an election last month by a vote of two. The building of the hall called for an issue of $15,000 in bonds.

The council voted to have the city attorney, T. L. McFadden, submit an anti-picketing law at the next session. This was presented through Councilman E. M. Everett, manager of the Bank of America, who said the request had come through the chamber of commerce. In addition the council took under consideration the employment of extra watchmen for the five packing houses, the packing houses having agreed to pay part of the cost. Councilman A. C. Schalles presented the case for the packing houses.

In connection with the second balloting on the city hall project, it was pointed out by the attorney that if 15 per cent of the number who voted at the last state election sign a petition, the project can be re-submitted.

The three councilmen whose terms expire are Howard Jerome, E. M. Everett and C. R. Young. Reports showed that more than half the street mending is completed, with the spending of about half of the gas tax allotment due Placentia, the total spent being about $150. Fines to the extent of $39 were collected from cases appearing before City Judge S. C. Harmony.

BIDS ON THREE BALBOA ISLAND LOTS ACCEPTED

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 6.—High bids on three Balboa Island lots, owned by the city of Newport Beach and recently advertised for sale, were accepted at last night's meeting of the city council. R. E. Woods, of Pasadena, will receive one of the lots at $175; Dr. W. E. Lawrence will receive one at $225, and Harvey D. Pease, of Orange, will receive one at $230. The bids ran as low as $75. The bids on the fourth lot advertised were so low that they were all rejected.

On application of C. D. Gage for permission to operate a fishing tackle and lunch stand, the application was referred to the health department. An application by Mrs. F. A. Ranier to operate a hand laundry business was referred to the city attorney because of technicalities arising from a city ordinance. Ruben Cole and A. W. Burns each presented requests for the erection of piers which were turned over to the city engineer for approval.

Allotment of 10 100-pound bags of beans from the city warehouse was made to the welfare department and the Co-operative Workers' Relief association. An allowance of $15 per month was allowed the Newport Harbor Baseball club from the advertising fund for the purchase of balls, bats and other equipment.

Following a complaint from the manager of the Balboa Inn that a nearby shooting gallery disturbed hotel guests in the night, a motion was made that the city attorney draft an amendment to the city ordinance that shooting galleries be eliminated from the city.

C. A. Pullen, of Corona Del Mar, appearing on behalf of the Corona Del Mar Property Owners' association, complained that a road, known as the Old Hill road, passing through block D, has been closed by the owners of the property, great inconvenience to persons coming from Balboa and other western points to that section. The road is privately owned. The matter was referred to the city attorney. The city attorney, Councilman George Irvin Gordon, and Pullen were appointed as a committee to investigate telephone rates in the Corona Del Mar section and report at the next council meeting.

The police department and the finance committee of the city were granted the power to investigate and to act concerning the matter of purchasing and installing police radio sets.

Harold A. Barclay was denied the use of a portion of a proposed new residence for use as a real estate office. A request for a four-way stop system at the intersection of Thirty-sixth street and the Coast Highway was denied, the street committee reporting that the present system is adequate for the location. The matter of a lighting system in certain portions of Sea Shore drive was referred to the city engineer with instructions to give detailed information to those interested as to how the matter is handled in other parts of the city.

U. S. To Seek Bids On P. O. At H. B. Soon

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 6.—Postmaster J. E. Huston received official notification from the postmaster general's office yesterday of the selection the seven lots at the southeast corner of Olive and Main street at the site for the new postoffice.

The government will spend $58,000 on the new postoffice. Details of the architect's plans will be forwarded here shortly and bids for the construction work will be sought. The site will cost $5000 and the remainder of the $58,000 will be spent on the building, furniture and grounds.

Of the seven lots in the site, two are owned by D. O. Stewart, pioneer Huntington Beach resident, and five are owned by the Huntington Beach company. The lots on Main street for a distance of 175 feet and on Olive avenue for a distance of 112 1-2 feet are directly across Main street from the Southern California Edison company offices and directly across Olive avenue from the Southern Counties Gas company offices.

The site was submitted to the government through the United Realty and Finance company by Sam Clapp, president.

PASTOR, WIFE HONOR GUESTS AT RECEPTION

TALBERT, Feb. 6.—A surprise feature of the quarterly conference at Talbert Methodist church, south, Sunday was a reception for the pastor, the Rev. Edward Moody, and Mrs. Moody, who were observing their 25th wedding anniversary. The affair was planned by the two congregations of the church, Greenville and Talbert.

The presiding elder, Dr. Grover C. Emmons, surprised the couple by asking them to the altar at the close of the church service, the couple repeating the wedding vows taken in the state of Mississippi over a quarter of a century ago. After services refreshments of ice cream and cake were served and the Rev. and Mrs. Moody were presented with a purse in observance of the occasion.

At the quarterly conference reports were turned in by Albert Farnsworth, superintendent of the Talbert Sunday school, and J. W. Shiffer, superintendent of the Greenville Sunday school. The report for the missionary society was especially praised by the presiding elder.

Announcement of the district conference of the church for March 7 and 8 at Glendale was made and delegates and alternates were appointed. They are Mrs. Edward Moody, Mr. and Mrs. David Janama, Miss Leora Blakey, Edward Moody, Mrs. Albert Farnsworth, Miss Ruth Moody, Mrs. Nay Clayton. Those attending the reception included Miss Ruth Moody and Edward Moody, daughter and son of the honored guest, the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Moody; Mrs. M. V. Knott, Garden Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cole, Mrs. Nay Clayton, J. W. Shiffer, Mr. and Mrs. David Janama and three children, Greenville; Miss Leora Blakey, Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Talbert, Miss Violet Rogers, Billy Carter, Mrs. Mary Doyle and grandchildren, Mrs. Bland and children, John Pope, Miss Florence Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Farnsworth and daughter, Talbert, and Mr. Ramey, Costa Mesa.

250 At Fashion Show Of Society

LA HABRA, Feb. 6.—More than 250 persons attended the fashion show sponsored by section 4 of the Ladies' Aid society of the La Habra Methodist church Monday evening at the woman's clubhouse. Mrs. Charles Shoemaker introduced the models.

Models were Joan White, Betty Lou Whitlock, Patsy and Anabel Shoemaker, Adeline Stempel, Mrs. B. S. Smallwood, Mrs. L. L. Clark, Mrs. F. P. Davis, Mrs. Harlan Hodges, Miss Anna Wolfe, Katherine Peck, Fern Jones, of La Habra, and Miss Winnie Pendleton, of Brea.

Program numbers included a tap dance drill by Beverly Jamison, Kitty Kuhn, Betty Lou Whitlock and Everette Church, pupils of Adeline Stempel; two vocal numbers by Mrs. T. W. LaMonte, of La Habra, and orchestra music by Selby Thompson's serenaders.

BOND ELECTION ON NEW SEWER SYSTEM AT HUNTINGTON BEACH AUTHORIZED BY CITY COUNCIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 6.—Following the reading of a letter from the chamber of commerce approving the proposed municipal sewer project, the city council last night authorized City Attorney Ray Overacker to prepare necessary papers for inclusion of the proposition on the ballot at the general election, April 9.

The letter pointed out that the present city septic tank was obsolete and inadequate and recommended that the cost of the project be covered by a general bond issue covering all taxable property. The estimated cost is $100,000. It is proposed to secure $50,000 of this amount through the F.W.A. Under present plans the septic tank is to be modernized and a new and modern disposal system installed.

A new ordinance amending the city business license ordinance was adopted on first reading. It provides that the city may revoke 14 cents a meal. Federal prisoners are also charged less than Huntington Beach city prisoners by the county authorities, he said. Talbert figured that the city paid the county $47 more for prison board at 20 cents a meal during January than should have been paid at 14 cents a meal.

Talbert's motion also provided for joining with the League of Orange County Municipalities in a request to the county supervisors for remedy in the matter. Other Orange county cities, Talbert said, got the same treatment in regard to prisoners' board. Chief Verne Keller said that when county officers left prisoners in the city jail over night, the city paid for breakfast and supper for the prisoners, and that the county ignored requests for reimbursing the city for such meals.

City clerk said if Chief of Police Keller would turn these expense accounts over to him he would hold them out of the county's bill, thus forcing collection.

Lyndon Wells asked and was granted paint and varnish to repaint the game rooms and lavatories at the recreation clubhouse in Triunfo park. The work will be done by the members of the Pinocchio club, free of charge to the city. Material will not cost over $10. The work will be done by expert artisans who are members of the club.

Capistrano Group in Church Social

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 6.—Henry Stewart, past president of the Christian Endeavor society, was the honor guest at a young people's get-together which followed the regular Sunday evening meeting of the society. He will return this week, after six months' absence, to the University of California at Los Angeles as a sophomore.

Refreshments of cake and hot chocolate were served cafeteria style to a merry group of 35 young people.

Officers of the society are: President, Myron Guilbert; vice president, Harriet Crumrine; secretary-treasurer, Barbara Malcom, and superintendent, Carl H. Hankey. Donna Patterson made arrangements for the party.

FABILITY

Mr. Roosevelt has a way of founding any opposition by weeding it. He worked at system the other day on the el workers who marched into the White House with blood in their eyes. They came to protest against the lassitude of the administration in regard to section 7-A of the steel code. Behind their leader, William Long, they discussed the Weirton case and finally got round to saying that they would be impelled to call a general strike. Conditions were not corrected. That suggestion was their bombshell. They did not exactly hurl it but set it down cautiously because the President and then drew back to await the effect. Imagine their surprise when Mr. Roosevelt said: "Fine, fine."

its protest against policies of the other. You will search them in vain for the method Mr. Roosevelt recently used on Germany. Instead of writing a note, or sending a diplomatic hint, he asked the German Ambassador to drop in to see him. With no one else in the room, he began to talk to Hans Luther about the way Herr Hitler was denying interest payments to American holders of German bonds.

REASONS

Shortly thereafter he issued his executive order which is supposed to satisfy labor demands. His friends say he had planned to issue something like it before the Long crowd called. That is probably correct. The situation was so bad that something had to be done whether the labor group protested or not.

RESULTS

The man who wrote the order for Mr. Roosevelt is the experienced labor lawyer, Donald Richberg.

Labor groups are satisfied with it, except one point, about which they are privately disturbed. They noticed that cases of violations are to be reported to General Johnson, instead of directly to the Department of Justice for prosecution.

They have an idea that this may leave them exactly where they were in the beginning. They would like to be able to present cases to the prosecuting authorities for swift action. However, they will keep quiet about it until they see how it works out.

PRESSURE

All text books on diplomacy contain the complicated formulae by which one nation may make trustworthy channels report that Mr. Roosevelt thought it was very unfair and warned Luther that public opinion in this country would be seriously aroused if Germany went through with such a policy.

It may be necessary for officials to deny that for diplomatic reasons, but it is substantially correct nevertheless.

A few days later the Berlin dispatches reported that Hitler modified his stand considerably.

MOVIE

If Mr. Roosevelt had chosen to send even a secret note about that matter, he would probably have failed to attain his objective.

The Germans would have been angry. Hitler would have lost face with his own people by yielding to pressure. The thing probably would have become lost in the meaningless words of diplomatic correspondence and action delayed for months and possibly forever. That is what usually happens in such cases.

Handling it the way he did, Mr. Roosevelt brought a personal element into diplomacy where it never existed before. In this initial case at any rate it worked out well.

ANTICS

The strangest of the New Dealers is a Westerner considerably over six feet tall whose antics on one of the many boards around town keep the White House insiders in hysterics.

His latest was to call the White House and ask why he had not received an invitation to a reception. Earlier he had telephoned asking that the President send an autographed photograph over to his office.

His associates on the board finally agreed that such enthusiasm as he displayed should be given an opportunity to express itself. So they elected him to a minor position to do the tedious detail work.

He acknowledged their courtesy at the next board meeting by delivering a speech of acceptance. He will probably wind up some day greater than them all.

NOTES

The State Department has been somewhat confused by the fact that Russia loaned Turkey $8,000,000 just at the time the Soviet representatives were telling New York bankers that they must have credits to buy here.

An order has been issued by the Walker board requiring all departments to submit copies of every report they give out, which has started the censorship murmurs again.

NEW YORK REVERSAL

New York is gloating over Jesse Jones' reversal on the relations of the RFC and the railroads. The change hasn't been mentioned from Washington but it's only a few weeks ago that Jones practically told railroads with impending maturities they'd have to stand on their own—or their bankers' feet. His current announcement that the RFC will be happy to underwrite an entire $52,000,000 ten-year issue for New York Central and take any part of it the public doesn't want—if Congress consents—completely swallows his earlier words.

This is one of Wall Street's few victories over Mr. Jones and it was accomplished very quietly. Federal bank examiners helped no end by lifting disapproving eyebrows at substantial loans to the Central which certain banks have carried quite a while. That gave the banks a sweet excuse to tell the road they couldn't possibly do anything more. In turn the road could truthfully tell the RFC that it had nowhere else to turn.

PUBLIC

Bear in mind that New York Central securities are widely held by the public. It is sometimes referred to as the "widows' and orphans' road." It would hardly help recovery sentiment to let it get into financial hot water. Something had to be done.

The main point is that RFC action in this case sets a precedent for other roads which will be pressed as occasion arises. On the other side some authorities admit this may be the first step

Avoid Ugly Pimples

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets; the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

toward realization of Coordinator Eastman's dream of public railroad ownership.

INSURED

A Wall Street house is about to offer a $12,000,000 refunding issue of utility mortgage bonds to the public in full compliance with the Securities Act. This looks courageous in view of local shudders about legal liability whenever the Act is mentioned.

It isn't as bold as it looks. The parent company of the subsidiary whose bonds are offered—a strong organization—has guaranteed to indemnify the issuing house against any damages arising out of the Securities Act.

The parent company figured it was worth while because there was no other way to get the financing done. Now it's trying to pass the buck along to a group of insurance companies which will probably work if an agreement can be reached on the proper premium. This solution may set the pace for other corporations with maturity problems.

REDUCTION

A New Yorker just returned from the South says that CWA is doing more to reduce cotton production than any quantity of AAA regulations. In some sections the colored field hands are jumping wholesale for Civil Works jobs, and leaving the cotton farmers stranded.

STATE

Political insiders say that Jim Farley's ambition to be Governor of New York has only been postponed until 1936—not cancelled.

The big Democratic drive this fall will be centered on re-electing Governor Lehman. Senator Copeland is certain to be sidetracked in the primaries. His lack of interest in the New York City Mayoralty election ditched him with the party powers.

PRISONS

One phase of the New York City prison scandal hasn't yet come to light but is likely to be revealed when the Grand Jury investigates. It seems that Tammany district leaders not only got special favors for their friends but had enough pull to keep people they didn't like in jail beyond their terms.

RICHEST

A European economist who is regarded as the world's greatest specialist on the subject of large fortunes makes the following current classification (in order of their wealth) of the seventeen richest men in the world:

1, Edsel Ford. 2, Baron Edouard de Rothschild. 3, Duke of Westminster. 4, Kaiser Wilhelm II. 5, Gaekwar of Baroda. 6, Sir Basil Zaharoff. 7, Simon Patino (Bolivia). 8, Lord Iveagh. 9, The Agha Kahn. 10, Nizam of Hyderabad. 11, Henry Ford. 12, G. de Wendel. 13, John D. Rockefeller. 14, John D. Rockefeller Jr. 15, Louis Dreyfus (Paris). 16, Andrew Mellon. 17, Fritz Thyssen (Germany).

COUGHLIN

Europe is just discovering Father Coughlin. Paris papers especially are carrying articles designed to show that he is the power behind the throne in America. They compare him to Abbe Sieyes, who laid the spiritual foundations of the French Revolution.

PLUTOCRAT

New York learns of complications over Britain's recent purchase of the Codex Sinaiticus—second oldest Bible in the world—recently acquired from Russia. The British Museum may have to resell it to the highest bidder because the 100,000 pounds paid for it was borrowed by the Museum and so far the public has subscribed only 10,000 pounds toward the government's pound for pound guarantee. The government will not increase its offer and if the money isn't forthcoming the Codex may be seen in the United States.

If it happens your Uncle Sam will again be dubbed a double-blinded plutocrat.

WITH all the salad-eating there is in California, people know when a mayonnaise or salad dressing is right . . . and when it isn't. Don't take chances with this important part of your salads.

The finest mayonnaise or salad dressing comes sealed in glass. It bears the name of the maker—evidence that he has made it of pure, wholesome ingredients, made it with great care, and is proud of it.

And he puts it in glass jars to protect its purity and flavor for you. To prevent all risk of its contamination from dirt in air and germs on hands—dangers to which bulk dressings are exposed.

You know your salads are going to be tasty . . . and healthful . . . when you get your favorite brand of mayonnaise or salad dressing sealed in glass that's never opened till it reaches your kitchen!

This urge to careful buying is published with the hearty approval of a great number of grocers.

CITIZENS OF ALL SECTIONS OF COUNTY JOIN IN SUPPORT OF ANNUAL MILITARY BALL

Residents of Orange county who will assist in making an outstanding success of the annual Military Ball under the auspices of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, were announced today by Commander Harry S. Pickard, chairman of the Citizen's committee in charge of the event, to be staged February 22 at the Valencia ballroom between Santa Ana and Anaheim.

The Military Ball, an annual event, is staged each year on Washington's Birthday to raise money to replenish the organization and welfare fund, the latter used to aid needy families of disabled veterans throughout Orange county.

Commander Pickard announced that the following citizens have accepted invitation to assist in the event:

Mrs. Jack Corn, Lotus H. Loudon, Mrs. Walter Ross and O. H. Renner of Anaheim; Assemblyman and Mrs. E. T. Craig, of Brea; Mrs. A. W. Cleaver, W. Kee Maxwell, Mrs. Archibald Edwards, Mrs. Albert Launer, Congressman and Mrs. Sam L. Collins, Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Cowles of Fullerton; Mrs. Christine Todd of Garden Grove; Mrs. Hazel Whitaker and Mrs. J. K. McDonald of Huntington Beach; Mrs. Marjory Peaton body of La Habra; Dr. and Mrs. V. A. Rosstier, Mr. and Mrs. Justus F. Craemer, State Senator and Mrs. N. T. Edwards, Claude Potter, Gordon X. Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Smith of Orange; Mrs. Leon T. Gilliland and Mrs. J. E. Coulter, Mrs. E. G. Flag, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Mrs. "Mother" Reeves, Mrs. C. V. Davis, W. B. Williams, T. E. Stephenson, Frank C. Drumm, J. F. Burke and J. Riley Huber of Santa Ana; Mrs. Dixon W. Tubbs, Mrs. Carl V. Newman, Assemblyman James B. Utt and W. B. Hellis of Tustin.

Other districts are organizing committees and are expected to report at the next meeting of the Citizen's committee.

At a meeting of the committee held last night, it was reported that the drum and bugle corps of the Santa Ana Legion post will open the festivities with a colorful display of intricate drills in their natty uniforms. The group of about 40 Legionnaires is noted throughout the state for its excellence in competition. Fred K. Haber is commander of the drum corps.

Dancing will predominate as the entertainment feature of the evening, and an excellent orchestra will furnish a program of modern music, featured by many soloists who will interpret the popular song hits of the day.

A brief intermission will be featured by a short entertainment program and the introduction of many military and naval distinguished guests, as well as numerous civic dignitaries.

A large attendance, representing every district in the county, was present at the meeting of the committee last night at the home of Mrs. F. E. Coulter, 525 South Ross street. Next Monday a meeting will be held at the A. G. Flag home, 1320 North Broadway, Santa Ana.

"Due to drastic legislation directed against the world war's disabled last March a special appeal is necessary this year," according to Harry S. Pickard, well known veteran, commander of the local unit. "The one platform of the D. A. V. organization is the caring for the disabled men and their families and to sponsor legislation to care for all service connected disabled veterans," Pickard said.

CHANCE MEETING PLACE
TUSTIN, Feb. 6.—Due to illness in the home of Mrs. Dwight Hayden, the Sewing club of the Tustin American Legion auxiliary will meet Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Helen Bruce, 530 West Third street, according to announcement made today by Mrs. Beulah Hamilton, publicity chairman.

WALNUT MEN OF SOUTHLAND MEET SATURDAY

Final announcement of program arrangements for the sixteenth annual Walnut Growers' institute to be held next Saturday beginning at 9:45 a.m. was made today by A. D. Smiley, chairman of the inter-county walnut growers' department of the Farm bureau. The institute is a cooperative activity between the agricultural extension service and the Farm bureau.

It is expected that some 500 growers will attend from all walnut producing districts of California—Santa Barbara to San Diego counties and also from the northern valley districts.

The program is as follows:

Morning
Address of welcome—Willard Smith, chairman, Orange county board of supervisors.
"Quality Fruit and Orchard Thinning," M. H. Kimball, assistant farm adviser, Los Angeles county.
"Preliminary Reports on Use of Ethylene Gas for Loosening Walnut Hulls," D. G. Sorber, chemist, U. S. department of agriculture.
"Practical Results on Blight Control in Ventura County," R. E. Barrett, association entomologist at Saticoy.

Afternoon
1:15—Special feature—Junior College Girls' octette.
"The Inter-county Walnut Growers' Field Day," Harold E. Wahlberg, farm adviser, Orange county.
"The Walnut Market Situation—Domestic and Foreign," Carlyle Thorpe, general manager, California Walnut Growers association.
"Control Board Methods as Practiced in 1933 and How It Will Be Handled in 1934," W. E. Goodspeed, secretary-manager of walnut control board.

"Importance of Cooperation in Solving Marketing Problems," R. W. Blackburn, president, California Farm Bureau federation.
The institute will be held Saturday, February 10, at the Willard junior high school, corner of North Ross street and Washington avenue, Santa Ana. All growers are invited to attend.

VET VOTERS GROUP PLANS MASS MEET

Organization of the Southern California division of the Veterans Voters league, embracing congressional district units south of Tehachapi, was completed at a meeting of district commanders and other league officials held Sunday afternoon at the residence of B. Lichtig, 10329 Whipple street, North Hollywood, according to word brought back here by Charles E. Dixon, of this city, who as district commander of the 19th congressional district unit attended the meeting.

Frank A. Parsons, 819 West Echo Park, Los Angeles, was named temporary chairman. Fred A. Larson, 6830 Whitley Terrace, North Hollywood, district commander of the 16th congressional district unit, and prominent in Los Angeles veterans circles, will act as secretary of the division formation, until a permanent secretary is appointed.

Plans are under way for staging a mass meeting at Patriotic hall in Los Angeles at which Antonio P. Entenza, Los Angeles attorney, and former national commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, will be one of the speakers. Another speaker listed on the program is William Connolly of Los Angeles, past national commander of the Disabled American War Veterans of the World War.

Ransom Awaits Bremer Kidnapers

The huge ransom raised to pay for the safe return of Edward G. Bremer, kidnaped banker, is shown here, carefully stacked in a St. Paul bank vault. The $200,000 includes 25,000 separate bills, in the pile of 25 bundles—10,000 fives and 15,000 tens. It weighs 50 pounds and fills two suitcases.

COOPERATIVE JOBLESS UNITS ASK U. S. AID

Cooperative unemployed associations in Orange county have joined to request aid of the federal government in maintaining their programs of self-help. It was learned today following a meeting of secretaries and managers of the cooperative associations held at the warehouse on East Fourth street, Santa Ana.

Through Harry L. Jones, head of the state relief association in charge of cooperatives, the groups have appealed to the government to furnish such items as sewing machines, garden implements, cooking utensils, and other articles needed to provide necessities of life.

According to Mrs. Olive Butler, secretary of the Unemployed Association of Santa Ana, the cooperative virtually have been assured of receiving the aid of the government. She pointed out that the cooperative have proven they are able to handle their own affairs through the economic and beneficial use of the grant of gasoline and oil made by the government.

The articles requested and which probably will be granted the cooperatives in this county would be paid for by federal money but would remain the property of the state and be loaned to the cooperatives.

At the meeting in the Central warehouse, a committee of 18 representatives of county cooperatives was formed to make direct contacts with the Citizens' Emergency Relief committee.

The aid requested is expected to be furnished by February 10.

Police News

Jence Jeong, 38, San Francisco, has been booked at the county jail for violation of the narcotic laws by United States Deputy Marshal Frank Besser.

Henry Galtien, 32, 218 South Artesia street, was arrested at Fourth and Main streets last night and booked at the county jail for drunkenness.

Five federal prisoners were booked at the county jail last night by United States Deputy Marshal Frank Besser. They were Roscoe Clough, 34, Jack Malowitz, 31 and Franklin Liles, 29, charged with forgery, and Yukitono Kinawasaki, 59, and Kujira Shinkai, 50.

MORE ARRESTS IN JANUARY BY CITY POLICE

Increases in arrests for drunken driving, violations of the California Vehicle act, city traffic ordinances, liquor law violations, burglary, battery, grand theft of automobiles and petty theft were shown in the monthly report of the police department for January over December.

Total arrests for the month were 99 more than for December, the report revealed. Vehicle violations led the increase with 99 in January and 47 in December, an increase of 52, with city traffic ordinances second with 177 as compared to 127, an increase of 50. Drunken driving was five for January and 4 for December, while petty theft was four to three and grand theft of autos, two to one.

Drunkenness arrests dropped from 31 to 15 for the month while vagrancy decreased from five to two and disturbing the peace from two to one. Classifications in January which showed no arrests in December were assault 1, battery 2, burglary 8, liquor law violations 1, robbery 1, bench warrants 3, defrauding an innkeeper 2, and arrests for other cities 2.

Several arrests classifications were the same for both months, including inebriety 1 and license law violations 1.

PLAN INSURANCE TO COVER STUDENTS

That all those attending school may secure adequate medical attention from any injuries incurred in physical education, plans are under way to provide an insurance plan that all students can afford, according to D. K. Hammond, Santa Ana High school principal, who is a member of a committee to study the insurance matter.

Insurance of this kind may be procured now at $4 per year, but it is hoped that adequate coverage may soon be provided for $1 per year, so that any student may buy it. Hammond continued, it would not be compulsory to carry the insurance, however.

There is no legal way by which assistance can be required from the school for injuries incurred during school hours, Hammond said, and often parents cannot afford to provide proper medical attention for the child.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

MIDWAY CITY, Feb. 6.—The birthday anniversary of Miss Verna Worthy was observed Sunday with a dinner in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Worthy. Those present at the dinner besides the honoree and hosts were an aunt, Mrs. Emma Pryor, and Mrs. Parker, while joining them for the afternoon were her two brothers and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Worthy and sons Roland and Bruce, of Wintersburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Worthy, Huntington Beach.

POLICE, FIRE FORCES ASK FOR CIVIL SERVICE IN S. A.; CITY COUNCIL DELAYS ACTION

Proposed action of the fire and police departments in circulating petitions among citizens of Santa Ana in favor of a civil service ordinance was delayed last night at the city council meeting when it was generally agreed that it would be best to secure additional information on the measure.

Japanese Girl, Chinese Boy to Wed

China and Japan may not be able to meet on any common ground of diplomacy but evidently Dan Cupid has never heard the word diplomacy. Neither has he kept abreast of the times in the matter of international relations.

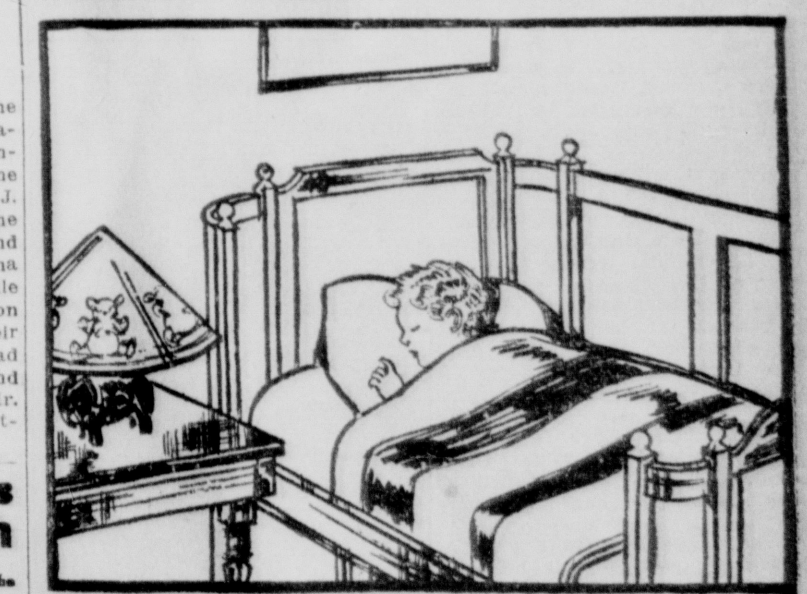

Yesterday a charming Japanese girl and a Chinese youth appeared at the marriage license bureau in the court house and filed notice of intention to wed. They gave their names as Miwa L. Tomura, 21, 120 East Avenue 38, Los Angeles, who said she is a native of Japan, and Mun Wew, 28, 1116 East Seventh street, Los Angeles. Wew is a native of China.

When bureau attaches mentioned that it was the first time in the history of the county that a marriage license has been sought by a Japanese and Chinese, Miss Tomura smiled and said "We get along all right."

Technocrat Group to Hear Laing on Wednesday Night

Graham A. Laing, professor of economics and business administration at California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, will be the principal speaker at a free, public meeting to be held under the auspices of the Continental Committee on Technocracy, Wednesday, February 7, at 7:45 p. m., in the auditorium of Polytechnic High school, 400 West Washington boulevard, in Los Angeles. George Vail Steep, chairman of the California division, Continental Committee on Technocracy, will preside.

The meeting is the first of a series of educational lectures on economics by eminent economists who have no connection with the technocratic movement.

"We liked the nursery night-lamp, and now we keep a light in the living room"

"I never believed in forcing nervous children to try to go to sleep in pitch darkness. How I hated and dreaded it when I was little. This little night-lamp has made a world of difference. They never fuss about going to sleep... John and I thought it was such a good idea that we decided we'd always keep a lamp burning in the library. We all feel safer—and the cost is so small we're not even aware of it."

It pays to know about proper home lighting. Are the lights in your house properly located for maximum convenience and correct distribution? An Edison representative or your electrical dealer will tell you without charge or obligation.

Rancher, Business Man Candidates For Council

L. H. INTORF AND M. E. BIVENS IN ELECTION RACE

CANDIDATES FOR COUNCIL

L. H. Intorf, left, and M. E. Bivens, who are candidates for the two positions on the city council at the election April 9.

ORANGE, Feb. 6.—Two candidates announced their intentions of entering the race for city councilmen this morning. The candidates are M. E. Bivens, prominent rancher, and L. H. Intorf, well known business man of the city. The election will take place April 9 and two councilmen are to be selected by voters of the city. The office of city clerk also will be filled at that time.

Nomination petitions may be filed between February 8 and March 20 at the office of the city clerk, T. H. Eljah. Voters must be registered by February 28 to take part in the election. Mayor Clyde Watson and Ben Dierker, who have served on the council for the past four years, will not seek re-election.

Intorf has been a resident of the city for the past 23 years. He served on the city council from 1928 to 1932. A taxpayer for nearly 20 years and a business man of the community for the same period of time, Intorf has employed a large number of men who are heads of families. He is a member of St. John's Lutheran church and is actively identified with its activities.

Intorf states that if elected he will stand for an economy program in city administration as far as is practical, but he says that he believes that the future should be considered in deciding economy measures.

Mr. and Mrs. Intorf are the parents of two sons and two daughters. Three of their children have completed courses at the Orange union high school, while one daughter has nearly completed the course.

Bivens served for four terms as chairman of the city board of the city of Vic, Okla., where he was engaged in business for nearly 20 years prior to his coming to Orange 12 years ago.

A member of the First Christian church, Bivens has served as the chairman of the board for several years and he has taken a prominent part in the activities of the organization. The children of the family have been brought up in the city of Orange and three of them are graduates of the Orange union high school. One daughter is now a student in that school.

In making his announcement as a candidate Bivens stated: "I wish to state that if elected, it shall be my purpose to consistently support at all times such measures as are conducive to the best interest of the people of Orange and I shall be glad to co-operate with all desiring good, clean, efficient government and I shall insist on law enforcement and a strict economy as is consistent."

If You Get Up Nights Make This 25c Test

Lax the bladder as you would the bowels. Drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Get a 25 cent box of RU-KETS, the bladder laxative, from any drug store. After four days if you are not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. RU-KETS, containing huchu leaves, juniper oil, etc., acts pleasantly and effectively on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. If you are bothered with backache, or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. Sold by McCoy's Drug stores.

VILLA PARK GUESTS

VILLA PARK, Feb. 6.—Guests in the Charles W. Morrow home recently included Mrs. Annie Stuthett, Miss Ethel Stuthett, of Orange, Mrs. Helen Pannier, Mrs. Mildred Brubaker, Mrs. Charles Berry, of Santa Ana; Mrs. M. J. Armstrong, of Silverado; Mrs. Emily Walters and Mrs. Houseman.

WOMAN'S CLUB RECALLS EARLY DAYS OF STATE

ORANGE, Feb. 6.—Early California days were reflected Monday in the appointments of the Orange Woman's clubhouse when former presidents of the organization were honored at an annual birthday luncheon marking the organization of the club 19 years ago. Presidents included Mrs. D. C. Pixley, Miss Sue Scarritt, Mrs. A. H. Halleck, Mrs. Clyde Watson, Mrs. Don Smiley, Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, Mrs. Leon Des Larzes, Mrs. Vera Wettlin and Mrs. Earl Crawford, all of whom were present; the late Mrs. Lea Collins and Mrs. William Marsh, of Long Beach; Mrs. A. D. Bishop, Mrs. L. T. Damewood and Mrs. J. F. Keller.

Guests were received by members of the executive board, who acted as hostesses, and members of the group were Mrs. J. T. McInnes, Mrs. E. H. Smith, Mrs. R. M. Buckles, Mrs. Donald Smiley, Mrs. A. D. Burkett, Mrs. John Hirst, Mrs. Earl Crawford and Mrs. A. H. Halleck. All wore colorful embroidered Spanish shawls and bright corsages.

The greater number of the guests and members arrived in costume of early California for the 12:30 o'clock luncheon. Black lace mantillas predominated in the costumes and high jeweled combs and shawls in brilliant colors were in evidence. The interesting costumes worn included a dotted silk mull worn by Mrs. A. H. Halleck, and a 49ers outfit donned by Mrs. Horace Newman. Mrs. O. K. Dean was dressed as a covered wagon mother with her baby in her arms. Mrs. Christine Lambert as an Indian maid and Mrs. R. W. Miller as a staid matron of 50 years ago.

Appointments for the table were especially lovely. The speakers' table was centered with a Mexican bowl filled with gourds and small Spanish figurines encircled it. Candle holders were attractive in colors harmonizing with the color theme. Other tables were centered with small pots of scarlet geraniums, cacti or vases of smoke weed and gay streamers and serpentine were caught at the chandeliers and festooned to the centerpieces.

Decorations were in charge of Mrs. G. L. Niles, who decorated the stage in harmony with the theme.

Lillian Morrow To Become Bride Of Everett Berry

VILLA PARK, Feb. 6.—The engagement of Miss Lillian Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Morrow, to Everett Berry of Santa Ana, was revealed at a birthday party given for Miss Morrow at her parents' home recently.

A valentine motif was carried out in the decorations and sweepstakes were used about the room. The interesting news of the engagement was revealed when the refreshment course was served after an evening of progressive games and two inter-linked red hearts were found to be inscribed with the initials of the young people.

Those present included Miss Lillian Morrow, Everett Berry, Miss Edna Hall, George Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berry of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pannier, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Brubaker Jr.,

METHODISTS NAME COMMITTEE TO COMPILE CHURCH HISTORY

ORANGE, Feb. 6.—A committee of the church about 1873. Dr. Dunning stated that he had been reading the diary of one of the early ministers, the Rev. Will A. Knighton, who is thought to have been the second pastor to serve the congregation. The Rev. Adam Bland is thought to have been the first pastor.

The Methodist church will co-operate with the First Presbyterian church in presenting a series of lectures on five consecutive Wednesday evenings. It was announced. The lectures are to be given by Dr. J. Hudson Ballard.

WARRANTS CHARGE VIOLATION OF CODE

ORANGE, Feb. 6.—Roy E. Black, deputy agricultural commissioner, swore out warrants late yesterday afternoon for the arrest of Mike Aguilar and R. Martinez, of Los Angeles, for a violation of the agricultural code. The men are charged with a misdemeanor in selling, transporting and delivering fruit not wrapped or packed and delivering it to another person in the state for selling, packing and reconditioning without obtaining a permit from the agricultural commissioner of the county.

It is charged that the oranges were not mature, were not free from decay and contained less than eight parts of soluble solids to every part of acid in the fruit.

It is understood that the men obtained fruit which had been dumped in Orange county as not marketable and transported it for sale elsewhere.

MISSION WORK OUTLINED FOR GUILD MEMBERS

ORANGE, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Ros Atherton spoke to members of the Bertha Epily guild of the Christian church at their regular monthly meeting last night on the subject "The Work of the Missionaries in Africa." She stated that the African natives are very quick to learn, but that it is difficult for them to break away from their traditions, because of the influence of the witch doctors.

To illustrate her talk, Mrs. Atherton had many interesting articles, which she and her husband brought back with them from Africa. Among them were several samples of the workmanship of the natives in making cloth out of fiber of bark. Many of the weapons of warfare were displayed, including a poison arrow. Of interest were other specimens such as weaving, dyeing, carving and brass ornaments.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Ellen Fullerton and Mrs. Virginia Kennedy. Little Miss Virginia Mineck played a piano selection, "Drifting," followed by two children's hymns, "Jesus Loves Me" and "When He Cometh," sung in the Congo language by Misses Ellen and Martha Jean Atherton.

Mrs. Dot McCracken gave a report of the junior church, sponsored by the guild, with Mrs. Dayton Ditchey and Mrs. McCracken as leaders. Following the program tea and wafers were served.

THE TINYMITES

"This wooden horse will bring real fun, if we can ever make him run," said Doty to the old man. "He looks stiff as stiff can be."

"Perhaps, kind sir, you know some way to make him jump around and play." The man then smiled and said, "Well, miss, you just leave that to me."

"A hand I guess I'll have to lend to make his legs so they will bend. Then I will say some magic words, and all will be all right."

"At first, the horse will move a bit. Then, in a jiffy, he'll be fit to scamper all around. You all will see a funny sight."

"I'm working on his legs right now. If I go wrong, you show me how to do it right," said Doty. "I've done this work before."

"Some hinges I have used, you see, so each leg will bend easily. I guess I ought to tell them so the joints will not get sore."

"Ha, ha!" the old man laughed. "Don't fret. I've never had that happen yet. As far as I can see, you need no help from me at all."

And then to Doty Tinymite he said, "Now, sail the back up right, or else the horse will break up, if he takes a sudden fall."

Soon Doty cried, "Hey, Duncy, you are loafing, like you always do." "Aw, wait a minute," Duncy snapped. "My share is coming last."

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, Feb. 6. — Mrs. M. M. Coker visited with her daughter, Mrs. D. V. Pratt, in Venice for three days.

Mrs. Roy C. Fox, who has been confined to her home with influenza the past two weeks, is convalescing.

Here are Dr. McKenzie's bronzes showing four stages of expression on an athlete's face. . . . At the left is the look of rage on the face of a sprinter who is exerting himself to the utmost.

At the left, the tortured look of a sprinter who is breathless—a look just like that of a double pneumonia patient. . . . Right, the stupid look, caused by the intoxication of fatigue.

The exhausted runner, about to fall over the finish line, bears this look of surprise. . . . The four photos in this group are copyrighted by Dr. R. Tait McKenzie.

WHAT STRENUOUS EFFORT DOES to YOUR FACE

How many of these facial expressions can you identify by Dr. McKenzie's list? . . . The picture shows the finish of the 100-yard dash in a 1930 intercollegiate meet at Cambridge, Mass., with Frank Wyhoff (left) winning and Eddie Tolan, next in line, coming in second.

By Jane Stafford

DID you ever wonder why an exhausted runner nearing the finish line looks so surprised? It is true that exhaustion and surprise produce nearly the same expression on the human face, even though they do not feel in the least alike.

The reason is that you use the same muscles, when you raise your eyebrows in surprise, that the sprinter uses when he is making his last desperate effort to pull his drooping lids open before utter weariness shuts them.

Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, professor of physical education in the University of Pennsylvania, has made a special study of facial expression in athletes. Because Dr. McKenzie is also a sculptor, he has learned the skillful tricks that artists use to portray emotion on canvass and in bronze and marble. It is all a matter of knowing which muscles are called into play by different feelings.

These muscles which produce such striking and extraordinary changes in expression differ from the general muscular system in that they have the power to move the skin in various directions. They are the remnants of the great muscle sheet that the horse or cow uses in summer to flick the flies away.

This relation between human facial muscles and muscles of other animals appears in the human expression of scorn, which, according to Dr. McKenzie, is a pale reflection of an expression seen in lower animals. You will see what he means if you watch a snarling dog "bare his fangs as he walks stiff-legged and bristling toward his enemy." When a haughty lady curls her lip in contempt and dislike, she is merely making a poor attempt at what the dog does, according to the sculptor-physician.

THAT the mechanism of facial expression is more a matter of muscles than feelings was shown by an experiment of a French scientist, Douchez. He worked with patients who had no sensations in the region of the face. Yet he could contract their muscles by electrical stimulation and so produce various expressions. In this way he saw just which muscles were responsible for each expression of the face.

For example, it is a circular, purse-string muscle of the mouth that puckers the lips for whistling or kissing. The corrugator muscle that wrinkles the forehead is the one that produces the expression of pain. Its French name means muscle of pain.

No matter how different the emotions behind them may be, weeping and fury are not far apart. The chief difference between these expressions is in the fact that the eyes are closed in weeping but opened wide in fury.

Weeping and laughing, on the other hand, both involve violent action of the respiration, but the combination of muscles used is slightly different.

There is a sketch by Rubens which clearly shows how laughter interferes with breathing. In this picture you can see that the man's blood pressure is rising and tears are coming from the pressure of the eyelids over the eyes. Rodin, the famous French sculptor, has shown how the muscles are used in producing the expression of weeping in his widely-known study of The Weeper.

Muscles are accountable for that elusive expression known as "looking pleasant" without definitely smiling. The artists have tricks for portraying this, too. The famous and much-discussed expression of the Mona Lisa, for instance, was achieved by the simple trick of painting the lady with a smile on the one side of her face only. Dr. McKenzie explained.

Leonardo Da Vinci, who painted her, would have been much surprised at all the discussion and controversy over his masterpiece, in Dr. McKenzie's opinion. If you look at only one side of the lady's face at a time, covering the other or varying your concentration, Dr. McKenzie says, you will see that the difference is merely that one side of the mouth is raised in a slight smile, while the other is not.

TO the layman, this is a mystery," Dr. McKenzie said, "just as it is the fact that the eyes of a front-face portrait have the disconcerting power of following you about the room."

Another artistic trick, which has really be-

The exhausted runner wears the look of surprise, and that expression of rage and fury you often see in an athlete actually is helping him in his race come a convention, consists in portraying the expression of adoration by raised head and upturned eyes. DuBois, in his famous statue of Jeanne D'Arc in front of the Rheims Cathedral, showed the Maid in this attitude, and you will find it repeated again and again in old paintings of the saints and in the works of modern artists, too.

To go back to the similar expressions produced on the face by exhaustion and surprise, Dr. McKenzie recalled that the eyes are ordinarily held open by the muscles of the eyelids. But when you are completely exhausted, and these tired perhaps paralyzed, eyelid muscles can no longer hold your lids open, you call on the larger muscles in your forehead that pull up the eyebrows and at the same time pull the drooping lids apart enough for you to see.

Accordingly, if an artist wants to show either surprise or exhaustion on his canvas, he paints the eyebrows curved and high in the face, with little wrinkles above them, and with the upper lid covering perhaps half of the eye.

YOU see it in the mirror if you watch your own face when you try to keep your eyes open just by pulling your eyebrows up. The face of physical effort, preceding exhaustion, is the face of rage, Dr. McKenzie has observed.

You see it plainly on the faces of sprinters who are exerting themselves to the utmost, particularly those who are not winning the race. In fact, Dr. McKenzie humorously pointed out, if any but the winner comes in without wearing that look of rage and fury he is pretty apt to hear about it from the coach, in no uncertain terms.

The expression is caused by a veritable explosion of energy in which the eyebrows are drawn down, the blood pressure is raised, the veins are enlarged and stand out, and the eyes are closed, if possible, though this is a dangerous procedure as the runner is apt to fall.

This same explosion of energy makes the man hold his breath, draw up the upper lip and draw down the lower one, though not at the corners, and clench his teeth. The closing of the eyes is a protective measure, to guard the delicate blood vessels from rupture due to the enormously increased pressure on them. This expression of rage and fury actually helps the runner with his race, Dr. McKenzie explained.

The sculptor-physician has made a long study of the facial expressions of athletes in competition, noting how they reflect the physiological processes of the various stages of exertion. There is strong resemblance between the expressions of the athletic competitors, particularly in track events, and the expressions, seen in some stages of illness, he found.

In the course of his study, he modeled four bronze masks showing the expressions of violent effort and of the progress of fatigue.

One of these masks shows the expression of violent effort which Dr. McKenzie described as being akin to that of rage.

When an athlete collapses he wears the expression of death—shown so remarkably on the face of Christ in this famous picture, "The Entombment," by Hans Holbein the Younger.

THE second is that of the breathless runner. This man wears the anxious face of mental distress. The same expression is seen on the patient suffering from double pneumonia or from a rapidly failing heart.

"No form of physical anxiety is more terrible than this," Dr. McKenzie said of breathlessness.

At this stage in the race, the man's tired eyes tend to close. His eyebrows are wrinkled. His open mouth gasps for breath. During the first part of the race there may be a feeling of exhilaration, but soon the feeling of distress becomes more acute.

The runner feels as if a tight band were drawn about his chest and this is exactly the way his face looks. Dr. McKenzie pointed out how, at this stage, the man's nostrils are widely dilated, his lips retracted, the angles of his mouth drawn down and his head thrown back to make a straight way for the air to come down to his lungs.

After this stage the runner gets what is popularly called his "second wind." Dr. McKenzie explained this as the moment when the respiration and heart action catch up with the output of waste products in the blood stream. You can see the relief in his face, just as you can see the stupor-like look of intoxication which marks his expression in the third stage of fatigue.

HERE is seen the dazed expression of semi-consciousness. The expression of the upper eye-brow is softened. The eyes appear very tired. The lips are not drawn back so sharply. In this condition the man may stumble or may unintentionally commit a foul. He fights off exhaustion by closing his eyes and raising his eyebrows, at the same time throwing back his head.

This expression gives way to that of exhaustion. He draws up his lids to keep his eyes open and opens his mouth more widely. At the same time, he attempts to balance his head with the least possible muscular effort, as he feels desperately weary.

You will see this same tilt of the head in the weary commuter, catching a few minutes sleep on the train, or in the person who sleeps during church services. In the athlete, it is part of his last fight to keep off syncope, which Dr. McKenzie called the "little death," and which is a temporary suspension of consciousness due to anemia of the brain.

FOR when you see the athlete collapse over the finish line you are getting a sudden glimpse of death. At this time if the man's eyelid is raised, it will be seen that his eyeball is turned upward; his nostrils are pinched and his eyes are deep in the socket. The expression is shockingly corpse-like.

"For the time being, he is dead," Dr. McKenzie said. "It is what is called the little death of syncope."

The expression has been portrayed in art, notably on the face of the Christ as painted by Hans Holbein the Younger in his conception of the entombment.

"Fortunately," Dr. McKenzie concluded, "the syncope of exhaustion is short and the athlete quickly recovers. The heart resumes its function and a healthy color comes back to his face, and he is ready again to show in a future contest the rage and fury of violent effort, the pain and anxiety of breathlessness, the drunken stupor of fatigue and the equivocal, pained pseudo-surprise which is put on the face by exhaustion."

THE TREASURY NOW HAS THE GOLD

The government today has a greater control over the money situation than it has ever had before in our history. In segregating all the monetary gold of the country in the vaults of the national treasury, it becomes free from private manipulation.

The private control of the monetary gold of the country has made possible all manner of manipulation. The great banking interests could withhold it, and thereby control the currency in circulation. In this way, a panic like that of 1907, which held up all business, took place. The government had to call upon the Morgans and others to help the country out of the hole. This, of course, is absurd in a country controlled by all the people.

The enactment of the Federal Reserve act of 1913 was the first move to put money under the control of the government. The opposition of the banking interests to this act is well recalled. The bill for its enactment was in the hands of President Wilson at the time the American Bankers' Association was holding its annual session in Boston. A committee of the association was sent in haste to Washington to request the president to veto the bill as ruinous to the business interests of the country. The bill, nevertheless, became law.

The Federal Reserve act was a great improvement over the National Banking act, which it replaced, because provision was made for the expansion of the currency in an emergency like that of 1907. With the Federal Reserve law money panics were no longer possible. But the banking interests, through the Federal Reserve banks, soon learned to control credit to such an extent that the bull market of 1927-29 was built up on Federal Reserve credit. To this inflation of credit, expressed in brokers' loans to the astounding figures of nearly nine billions of dollars, the skyrocketing of stock prices, and the building up of the colossal public and private debts of the country, is due the depression of the past four years.

What has gone up had to come down. The slow liquidation of the Hoover administration threatened the country with economic ruin. Something had to be done to lessen the debt burden. The means chosen has been the deflation of the gold dollar, in order that debts incurred during the boom period might be paid in a dollar of the same value in these days of low prices. The government now controls the money situation, and the gold of the country will be used for the good of all the people.

It has been said that not more than a dozen men in this country understand the money question, and they are not agreed. This, however, can be understood, that the gold of the country in the control of the government is better for all the people than in the control of the international bankers as heretofore it has always been.

REVOLUTION BY CONSENT

A recent writer thus defines the changes through which we are passing under the Roosevelt administration. Revolution, he says, always transfers power from one class to another class. That was the case in the French revolution of 1789 and the Russian revolution of 1917. In those cases it was effected by violence. In the case of the Reform Movement of 1832 in England, and apparently at the present time in the United States, it is being effected without violence—by consent.

Of course, there are many who refuse to believe that we are passing through a revolution. It will be found, they say, when the shouting is all over that the same crowd which has controlled in the past will still be in control. They point to the "square deal" under the older Roosevelt and the "new freedom" under Woodrow Wilson, and predict the same fate for the "new deal."

This may be so. But to the close student there appears to be a difference. A retired Harvard professor, who was enthusiastic for the Bull Moose movement of 1912, is reported to have said that he never had much faith in the reform spirit of Theodore Roosevelt. He backed it for the want of anything better at the time. It is a question whether Woodrow Wilson ever envisaged a radical change such as now seems to be envisaged by Franklin Roosevelt. Certainly, neither of them ever went so deep as the NRA and the Securities act have gone. And the Public Works program and the agricultural program mark a decidedly new departure.

To all appearances there is a revolution going on. The "forgotten man" is decidedly in the picture. It remains to be seen, however, whether the public, now so solidly back of the president, will be diverted by the backfires now beginning to be lighted. Yet it must be said, that things look different from all former movements of change which the country has experienced.

PROTECTING PUBLIC UTILITY INVESTORS

A nation-wide organization for the protection of investors in public utilities is being projected. All holders of public utility securities have been appealed to to join such an organization and to contribute from one to five dollars, according to the number of shares held.

This is perfectly right to do. Every man has the right to protect his investments in every legitimate way possible. No doubt, millions of investors in this country are "holding the bag" today by reason of the manipulation of public utility stocks through mergers and holding companies. The expectancies of time and eternity are capitalized by the promoters of these utility investments. Millions of people paid the high prices and fattened the fortunes of the promoters.

It is very unfortunate for the people who paid the boom prices of 1928 and 1929 which have been deflated sometimes as much as three or four hundred per cent. But why should the people who were not money-mad during those years be called upon to make good the losses of these investors? Stocks for which the original purchasers paid from ten to twenty dollars were boosted as high as ten times those amounts. The Insull flotations are a good example. There is no logical reason why the users of light and power should be asked to make good these losses in speculation.

The fact is, these natural monopolies charged more than the traffic would bear; and now that the people have risen in revolt and are building municipal plants, and the government is engaged in such a project as the Tennessee Valley authority, the monopoly control has been broken, and it has become impossible to pay dividends on the blown-up prices of investments in some of these utility companies.

It may be noted that the policy of the Tennessee Valley authority is to conserve as far as possible the genuine values of private investments within the area covered by the project. But that does not mean that it will protect the inflated values. Had the Securities' act passed by the last session of the congress been on the statute book in the boom years, there would not have been the plunder of the innocents which is the reason for calling for this protective organization. These innocents are to be pitied. Many of them have lost everything. But the people at large cannot be expected to bear the expense of their folly or their cupidity.

Warden Lawes of Sing Sing refused to give a condemned man a drink before his execution. The warden didn't want to take a chance on cheating the law of its just desserts.

SALT ON METAL

Recently an engineer demonstrated to a body of colleagues gathered at the Institute of the aeronautical science his discovery that metallic salt reveals cracks in steel otherwise invisible. Making the demonstration, he spread out steel aeroplane parts, parts that appeared to be perfect. Then he shook a film of his white salt over them and there were revealed flaws that had been invisible but which were actually danger points.

Only an impossible recheck of all aeroplane accidents could reveal the value of this test for imperfections in metal. Minute, invisible cracks in an original piece of metal are potential danger points. They may take many months before reaching the point of cracking and too often, being invisible in the beginning, expand into breaks unnoticed.

The salt application is a little like taming the bird by putting salt on his tail. It promises to be much more effective and a boon not only to the safety of aeroplanes but other machinery which has been operating against a small but hitherto ineradicable percentage of unseen cracks.

More Light on the Milky Way
New York Times

Look up at the stars. In the Milky Way alone there are 170 billion, according to the latest estimate by J. A. Plaskett and J. A. Pearce of the Dominion Observatory. We owe the count partly to such penetrating instruments as the 100-inch mirror of Mount Wilson, partly to the mathematical work of the astronomers. In another month a still larger mirror will be cast for that observatory—a great parabolic glass which will be ground down until it becomes a parabolic reflector 200 inches in diameter. What new estimates of stars will be made, what new depths will be plumbed?

There will be no casual sweeping of the skies with this instrument as there was in the old romantic days of haphazard exploration, no hoping that an unknown planet will swim into the astronomer's ken. It is the camera and not the eye that has revealed the 170 billion suns of the Milky Way. Observatories are now laboratories. Their work is planned. Novae are the specialty of some watchers—new stars which suddenly flare up and which, according to Professor Zwicky, may account for the cosmic rays. Double stars that revolve around each other to the vast delight of mathematicians engage the attention of others. Temperatures and luminosities measured in degrees of an appalling number and in candlepowers that cannot be grasped are studied by still a third group. Questions of a new kind are asked. What is behind that relation of starlight and star-size which Edington discovered and which constitutes one of the great triumphs of induction? If the outer nebulae are rushing away at the rate of 12,000 miles a second, is it safe to conclude that with the 200-inch mirror even remoter ones will be discovered which are still speedier? Is it possible to reach the very confines of space? "This is the end. Beyond there is nothing, not even space." Will the astronomer ever say that?

In one sense the new instruments have widened the astronomical horizon, in another they have narrowed it. When telescopes were smaller no one dreamed that stars would be counted by hundreds of billions. On the other hand, astronomers talked confidently of infinity, as if beyond the last new star there was another and another without end. We recognize the Milky Way now as but one of many "universes"—a small, insignificant nebula spinning like a pinwheel around some dust-obscured sun or suns in 220,000,000 years. Far out in space are other Milky Ways known and unknown, still to be related to ours in one grandiose scheme.

"More light!" cried dying Goethe. From the astronomer comes the same cry. To him light is both a symbol of knowledge and a means of gathering that knowledge. The new great mirror is a light-gatherer rather than a magnifier. So with the microscope, with which the infinitesimal is scrutinized. Always light—more light. For both atomic physicists and astronomers find that radiation holds the secret of the cosmos.

A Difference of Opinion in the Laboratory

More Truth Than Poetry
By James J. Montague

READ 'EM AND WEEP

I hoped new boards and bodies might
My benefactors be,
But in my present fiscal plight
They hold no hope for me.
Nobody yet has shown me how
To lighten my distress;
The letters that I need just now
Are S. O. S.!

The F. A. C. A. does not seem
To serve my case a bit;
I cannot find a single gleam
Of helpfulness in it.
At dawn I waken with a moan,
Search empty pockets through,
And mutter, "Gosh! I need a loan,
And P. D. Q."

It may be that the M. L. B.
Can point a wise way out
Of worries folks like you and me
Must daily fuss about,
But who can summon up a smile
To drive away the blues
When facing down upon a pile
Of I O U's?

I've gone quite through the alphabet
And still I find no aid
To save me from the care and fret
Of my laborious trade.
The only letters I can find—
Distracted as I am—
Which bring a solace to my mind
Are D. A. M.

NO JOB FOR A DUMBELL
It is obvious that the boys who are organizing all those boards down in Washington must be men of letters.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

SPENDING OUR WAY TO INFLATION

Lavish governmental spending in times when private enterprise is in the doldrums is a statesman-like move provided the forces of normal recovery are wisely and effectively engineered at the same time.

Lavish governmental spending cannot be other than a stimulating interlude between two phases of normal economic activity. When it goes beyond that there is no answer save lavish inflation of the currency.

Unless we are content to reduce drastically the scale of our entire national enterprise and reorganize our lives in more limited terms, we must effect a very wide spread of popular buying power.

We are now witnessing a revitalizing of business activity because the government has thrown billions of dollars into the stream of consumption. This revitalization must inevitably come to an end unless the forces of normal enterprise come rather promptly back into play.

If normal recovery does not move steadily ahead, it will be difficult to avoid resorting to the printing press. It is all well and good to say dogmatically that we will stop such outlays as the CWA expenditures on, say May 1, but no political leadership under heaven will be able to stop them abruptly if a pretty stable recovery has not been achieved by then. The masses have tasted blood and—figuratively speaking—they will rend any leadership that tends to land them back in breadlines after an experience of work on government subsidized projects.

Sooner or later we shall reach the saturation point on taxation. We are facing two flat alternatives, then, and they are: (1) sound recovery of private enterprise, and (2) wholesale inflation.

Wholesale inflation will spell national ruin. Therefore, it behooves every force in the country to stand by with ceaseless criticism of and conscious cooperation with the Roosevelt forces to demand to help in bringing about normal recovery in the shortest possible time.

I have every confidence in Mr. Roosevelt. He will never willingly wreck the country with the printing press. But the brutal fact is that he is embarking on a spending program which, in the absence of genuine economic recovery, will lead straight to the printing press. Neither he nor any other leader can keep away from inflation if recovery is too long delayed. The masses will force his hand. He will be compelled by popular pressure to go on spending until recovery comes. And unless it comes with decent promptitude the spending will be impossible apart from lavish inflation.

Our Children
By Angelo Patri

"Mother, what do you say?"
"About what?"
"If you were me, would you have two girls and two boys, or one girl and three boys, or all boys, or what?"

"What's this? What do you mean? What are you talking about, anyway?"
"Fellcia and I are having an argument. She says that it's better to have all girls or all boys for children, and I say no, I'm going to have some of each. What do you say? Why did you have only me?"

"Margaret Doolittle, I'm ashamed of my life of you. Is this sort of talk that's going on when Felicia comes here. I never dreamed that little girls brought up nicely as you have been would talk such nasty talk as this."
"But mother—"
"I'm disgusted. This is the last time that Felicia comes here. You're to have nothing more to do with her. I'll tell her mother just what I think of this whole business. I've trusted that child—"

"But mother, Felicia didn't do anything. I just wondered and I asked her what she was going to do and I told her what I was going to do when I was married. What's wrong about that?"
"Wrong? Everything is wrong. You've no business talking about such things. Nice clean-minded girls would never think of such a thing. Don't ever let me hear you mentioning anything of the sort again as long as you live. If Felicia's mother ever knew that you had put such an idea into her daughter's head—"

That attitude makes all sorts of trouble. It drives the girls away from their mothers and into the confidence of strangers. How safe are they then? It frightens some girls so that they never get over the fear of sex. It makes many girls, and boys too, distrust their parents. For are they not the children of these very parents who are in a panic about this very natural situation?

If you have the sense you were born with, you will not fly into a helpless brain-storm because a child shows an interest in life and its creative aspects. What do you expect? Nature makes no secret of her strong intention to keep life going on this earth. How, or why, do you expect to do so? Nature is a long, long way ahead of you. She began with the birth of this child and you have no thought of beginning this work of education in sex. Better start now and do your best to catch up.

If you can't find courage, or words, or whatever it is you need to talk sanely to your children about these questions the best thing for you to do is to go for help to those who do know. You can get the help you need for a few cents. You can read, and think, and plan for this instruction your children must have.

Nobody can take the places of father and mother in this. Each child differs from the other and he must be taught what he needs to know in the way he needs to know it without regard to his brother or sister or neighbor. And the first thing that parents and teachers have to learn is that there is nothing dirty about sex until a thought makes it so. Don't let that thought be yours.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
